Rusk Leaves For Moscow To Sign Pact

Visit Expected To Entail More Talks On Truce

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk headed for Moscow Friday night to sign the nuclear test ban treaty and explore with Premier Khrushchev the possibilities for further East-West agreements.

In advance of his departure as head of a 12-man U.S. delegation, Rusk was described as willing to talk with Khrushchev and other Russian leaders about virtually any item. He expects to stay in the Soviet Union until late next week.

PRIVATE LETTER

Rusk is taking to Khrushchev a private letter from President Kennedy. It is in reply to one the Soviet leader sent the President after conclusion of the test ban agreement and it is reportedly friendly in tone.

The United States has shown special interest in Khrushchev's proposals for a non aggression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and Warsaw Pact and for exchanges of observers to guard against surprise attack.

These were among subjects raised by the Soviets during the 10-day test ban negotiations in Moscow and put off for later discussion.

Rusk was pictured as preparing only to probe what Khrushchev has in mind, rather than to negotiate any agreement at this time.

The United States has promised its Western allies it will not enter into any deal with the Soviets affecting them, such as a non aggression accord, without a round of consultations with them first.

In advance of Rusk's departure, the day brought these other test ban developments:
the test clash in 10 years of unleaders announced they can support the pending treaty only "if it can be had without endangering our safety or security."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, and Rep. Charles A. Halleck, the GOP House chief, in a formal statement of party position said there must be affirmative answers to these questions:

"Would the test ban treaty per-

1st Cavalary North Korean Patrols Clash

ALONG THE TRUCE LINE, Korea, Saturday (UPI)—Soldiers of the U. S. First Cavalry Division engaged a Communist North Korean patrol in a firefight that lasted about two hours in the demilitarized zone early today, according to First Cavalry officials.

Details of the clash were sketchy.

Col. William D. Lynch, commander of the Fir Reconnaissance Squadron of the First Cavalry Division said: "We believe we got a couple (of North Koreans)."

Lynch gave a few details regarding the skirmish, after discussing it briefly at his headquarters this morning with Brig. Gen. William McCaffrey, deputy commanding general of the First Cavalry.

According to Lynch, the shooting began a little after 1 a.m., local time and lasted about two hours.

Grenades apparently were used by both sides.

The clash occurred when a North Korean patrol slipped across the demilitarized zone into an area where the First Cavalry Division had posted ambush guards, called "stakeouts."

Earlier, front line memorial services had been held Friday for two American soldiers ambushed Monday by North Koreans just south of the demilitarized zone.

Ways & Means In Final Round

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways & Means Committee passed the half-way mark Friday in its final round of voting on tax revisions that would levy close to $1 billion in taxes on selected groups of individuals and corporations.

The committee affirmed, with some softening amendments, its earlier decision to make it a little more difficult for corporation executives to use stock options to take risk-less profits in the stock market at favorable tax rates.

The new restrictions, designed to curb abuses that have drawn criticism even from some captains of industry, were unanimously approved.

GROWING IN SIZE

Young Hurricane Stirs In Atlantic For Season's 1st

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Arlene churned up wild seas in the tropical Atlantic Friday and the weather bureau warned that the storm would grow in size and intensity.

The first hurricane of the 1963 season was about 1,050 miles east southeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, whirling toward the west northwest at 16 miles per hour.

HIGH WINDS

"Highest winds are estimated at near 100 m.p.h. over a small area near the center," the weather bureau said. "Gale force winds extend outward about 175 miles in the northern semicircle and 75 miles in the southern semicircle.

"Indications are that hurricane Arlene will increase in size and intensity during the next 12 to 24 hours."

At 5 p.m. (EST), the hurricane was located near latitude 14.6 north, longitude 50.9 west, or about 2,050 miles east southeast of Miami.

A Navy reconnaisance plane found the hurricane Friday morning about 750 miles east of Martinique, in the Lesser Antilles, near latitude 14.2 north, longitude 49.7 west.

The strongest winds raged over a small area around the center. Gale winds whirled outward 170 miles in the northern semicircle and about 60 miles in the southern semicircle.

Arlene had a long way to go before nearing the United States, and she could pick up a lot of steam along the way, but Miami Weather Bureau forecasts said it was too early to speculate on how big she will grow or whether she would ever cross a coastline.

It was a long haul from Puerto Rico to the huricane area for the Navy plane, and the pilot, Lt. Peter J. Groff of Pocahontas, Iowa, was able to remain in the storm only a short time before his fuel consumption forced him to turn back.

But the Weather Bureau said Groff gathered much information. Frequent flights now will be made into the storm center from Puerto Rico and later, as the hurricane draws closer, from the United States.

While Arlene was commanding the attention of hurricane forecasters, an easterly wave in the central Caribbean also was causing some concern.

Yeldell, 39, a resident of 624 Lakeshore Drive, said he was running as an "independent candidate."

"I am a candidate for the House of Representatives because I feel that our state government is not being administered properly," he stated. "Changes should be made."

AREA NATIVE

A native of Morehouse Parish, Yeldell is a graduate of the Louisiana Business College in higher accounting and business administration.

He has been in business in the Twin Cities for the past 17 years.

Yeldell, a resident of Ouachita since 1946, is married to the former Melba Dodd of Oak Grove. They have two children — a son and a daughter.

"I advocate a policy of good business in government — not whom you know," Yeldell stated. "I'm for more states' rights and less taxes and no deadheads."

He added, "I want to take the undeserving off welfare and give more pay to the school teachers and related jobs."

Yeldell said he would announce a "more detailed platform later."

He is a veteran of World War II, serving in the U. S. Marines from 1941-46.

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese fighter - bombers Friday destroyed a U. S. observation plane forced down Thursday apparently by Communist Viet Cong groundfire about 40 miles southwest of Danang, it was reported.

Two U. S. Marine helicopters flew in to bring out the U. S. pilot and Vietnamese observer after the observation plane went down.

PANMUNJOM TALKS

U.N. Truce Teams Expect Hot Clash

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The hto test clash in 10 years of uneasy armistice in Korea is expected Saturday at Panmunjom, the truce village in this divided land where there is no truce.

The United Nations Command representatives will accuse the North Korean Communists of crossing the demilitarized zone and killing three American soldiers and a Republic of Korea policeman.

Gen. George H. Cloud, senior delegate from the U.N. Command on the armistice commission, visited the front Friday gathering material for the charges of deceit and treachery he will place against the Communists.

The killing of the four this week and the wounding of a fifth have been the most flagrant violations of the armistice agreement that was signed at Panmunjom on July 27, 1953.

Bodies of four North Korean Communist soldiers killed in the battle south of the line are being held in a morgue at Ascom, near Inchon.

U.N. Command authorities doubt if their North Korean counterparts on the armistice commission would claim the bodies if they saw them.

Cloud is interested in getting the return of two helicopter pilots the Communists have been holding for 11 weeks.

The helicopter pilots are Capt. Ben W. Stutts, 30, Florence, Ala., and Capt. Charleton W. Voltz, 26, Frankfort, Mich.

The North Koreans have refused to discuss their release since the two were shot down on a flight last May. The U.N. Command says they crossed the line into North Korea by mistake.

U.S. Denies India Use Of Missiles

Soviets Agree To Supply New Air Weaponry

NEW DELHI (AP)—Usually reliable sources said Friday that India was turned down by the United States in a bid for anti-aircraft missiles and that the Soviet Union has agreed to supply them.

Britain and the United States stipulated that military aid should be used only for defense against Communist China. This restriction was intended to reassure their ally, neighboring Pakistan, which fears Indian attack because of the dispute over control of the Himalayan state of Kashmir.

The Soviet Union, qualified sources said, imposed no limitations on use of arms shipped to India.

In view of the sophisticated and secret equipment they are about to send India, Britain and the United States have asked Indian officers to keep it separate from Soviet material.

A foreign ministry spokesman said "security precautions are taken for all military equipment in the interests of all parties concerned."

EARLY STAGES

An arms mission sent back a partial report from Moscow saying the Soviet Union had offered ground-based anti-aircraft missiles, mountain artillery, helicopters and other items.

(In Moscow, however, the ranking member of the Indian Foreign Ministry, R. K. Nehru—who is not part of the military mission—was evasive about Soviet military aid to India. Asked specifically about the offer of missiles, he said he had not discussed it in his talks with premier Khrushchev and other Soviet officials.

(He did say that the talks had convinced him that the Soviet Union was anxious to prevent renewed fighting between India and Red China.)

The Indian air force has been flying Soviet-built helicopters and heavy and light transport planes for years. It received six MIG21 jet fighters last winter to use as trainers while an assembly plant to construct more of the Soviet planes is being built in India.

The air force also has American and French-built helicopters, British and French combat planes and American, Canadian and British transports.

Cabinet approval still is needed for the Soviet arms deal and financial arrangements must be completed.

Emphasis in the arms deal, informed sources said, was on setting up a plant here to manufacture the missiles. This is similar to the arrangements for the MIGs and, as in that case, the Soviet Union would supply the missiles until the plant is operational.

Superintendent Proposal Is Set For Board

A committee of the Ouachita Parish School Board met Friday to reach a "unanimous decision" on a recommendation to fill the vacant post of school superintendent.

Chairman George Rorex of ward 10 said the committee had acted unanimously in making its selection from two candidates — Acting Supt. Milton Hall and James Rutledge, director of the Cerebral Palsy school at Selman Field.

The committee's recommendation will be made before the full board at its next regular meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Rorex declined to say on whom the committee had decided.

The board is under no obligation to accept the recommendation on a replacement for W. W. Ward who resigned July 6 to take a position with Louisiana State University.

Committee members at the Friday session, besides Rorex, were C. E. Buckley of ward three; M. L. Owens Jr., ward five; C. P. Holloway, ward seven; and School Board President B. A. Tarver of ward three, an ex officio member.

Council Bid For Force Is Refused

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States announced Friday a ban on sales of all military equipment to South Africa by the end of the year. But it opposed punitive action by the Security Council aimed at forcing South Africa to abandon its white supremacy policies.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson made the announcement to the 11-nation council as it considered requests by African nations that it impose severe diplomatic and economic penalties against Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's government.

"We cannot accept the conclusion that there is no way out—no direction to go except the present collision course toward ultimate disaster in South Africa."

Stevenson spoke after Alex Quaison-Sackey, delegate from Ghana, requested the council to consider expulsion of South Africa from the United Nations. He made no concrete proposal, and none so drastic is expected.

DEEP CONCERN

Stevenson declared the United States was taking the arms embargo action to indicate the deep concern which his government feels at the failure of South Africa to abandon its racial segregation policies.

He said that the United States has been applying a rigorous ban on sale of arms and military equipment which could be used by South Africa to enforce racial segregation there or in adjoining South West Africa.

But now, he said, the United States "expects to bring to an end the sale of all military equipment by the end of this calendar year in order further to contribute to a peaceful solution, and to avoid any steps which might at this point directly contribute to international friction in the area."

Stevenson said the United States must honor existing contracts for limited quantities of strategic

Red Chinese Blast Aims Of Big Three

TOKYO (AP) — Red China charged Friday that enslavement of non-nuclear nations is an aim of the Big Three partial test ban treaty. It described Soviet leaders—along with Britons and Americans—as freaks and monsters operating with insolent arrogance.

The Peking People's Daily, official paper of the Chinese Communist party, paired the Kremlin with the Washington administration in a fresh denunciation of the pact to be signed Monday in Moscow.

Both sides in the Moscow-Peking feud again named names.

The Soviet government paper Izvestia charged Chinese Premier Chou En-lai showed insincerity as long as four years ago. Illustrating that, it said Chou launched a campaign against the Soviet Communist party shortly after he endorsed Kremlin leadership at the 1959 party congress in Moscow.

Stalinist Albania, a Soviet bloc outcast long allied with China, took a potshot at Soviet Premier Khrushchev. It accused him of "unconditional concessions and capitulation to the imperialists" in agreeing to the nuclear test ban.

The Soviet news agency Tass played up an attack on the Chinese Communists by a Red leader of Chile, Orlando Millas. Under a Santiago dateline, it quoted Millas as accusing the Peking regime of adopting a reactionary viewpoint on the danger of a nuclear war, divisive activities and defense of "all that was negative in the personality cult."

The People's Daily repeated a proposal of Mao Tze-tung's regime for a world conference to abolish and prohibit nuclear weapons.

The People's Daily said "Washington tycoons consider it is fully legitimate for the three nuclear powers to impose the Moscow treaty on the non-nuclear countries."

STORM WARNINGS

Senate GOP Still Wary Of Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate-House Republican leadership said Friday the nuclear test ban treaty is in the interest of America only "if it can be had without endangering our safety or security."

The party position was summed up formally in a statement asserting that before the Senate acts on ratification its members "should have every bit of information necessary" to see that it meets that test.

QUESTIONS

Among questions raised by the Republicans, headed by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate minority leader, and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House GOP leader, were:

"1. Would the test ban treaty permit the Soviet Union to overcome any margin remaining to the United States and eventually establish marked superiority?

"2. If Soviet superiority were gained, would the peace of the world be in safer hands than when the United States enjoyed the edge?"

The statement said the issue is whether the peace can be best preserved by ratification of the treaty or "a maximum up-to-the-minute defense capability so destructive as to prohibit attack."

Is said there i sevidence that in their high-altitude testing the Soviets may have made progress on developing an antiballistic missile capable of destroying incoming missiles. It cited published reports they are erecting missile sites which may be designed for antiballistic weapons.

The statement also raised the question whether American superiority in tactical weapons could be overcome by Soviet underground testing permitted under the treaty.

It said the Joint Chiefs of Staff, officials of the Atomic Energy Commission, nuclear experts and intelligence officers must be called for an evaluation "with all cards face up on the table."

British Pelican Hopes For Female

LONDON (AP) — A lonesome pelican named Paul acquired a prospective mate—if, that is, they haven't repealed the law of averages.

True, the mating season has passed, but there's always one more spring.

All of a sudden four more of the breed have arrived, by air, courtesy of the birdloving Emir of Bahawalpur in Pakistan.

It is difficult to tell the sex of pelicans and it is no better than an even money bet that Paul is in fact Paul and not Pauline.

But even so, it is good odds that one of the four Bahawalpur pelicans is a hen pelican or if need be a cock pelican, depending on whether Paul is a boy or a girl.

Until last year, there were three St. James's Park pelicans. They were called, somewhat arbitrarily Paul, Wilfrid and Daphne.

Paul seemed indifferent to both Wilfrid and Daphne. Wilfrid showed signs of liking Daphne, but then he died. Soon after, Daphne made a bad landing from a brief flight, damaged a wing and has since been in the St. James bird infirmary.

The Emir of Bahawalpur heard about the situation and came to the rescue.

Said St. James's Park birdkeeper Arthur May: "Paul will be glad of the company of some other pelicans whatever their sex. Or his."

France Knocks Hopes Of Early Ban Agreement

PARIS (UPI) — French officials Friday wrote off prospects of an early U.S.-French agreement on nuclear policy or a meeting between President Kennedy and President Charles de Gaulle within the next six months.

Kennedy's news conference on Thursday poured cold water on previously mounting hopes that the United States might be on the verge of offering to share nuclear know-how with France.

There was no immediate official French comment. De Gaulle is vacationing at his country home and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville is in West Africa.

But the fact that Kennedy, while conceding that France now is a nuclear power, made no offer to share nuclear secrets was a severe disappointment.

Privately French officials said it is clear that the United States is not ready to abandon its Western "nuclear monopoly" or its claims to leadership of the Western Alliance.

In his news conference Monday De Gaulle said he would settle for nothing less than treatment as an equal in the alliance. French officials asserted that it was clear from Kennedy's remarks that he is unwilling to accept this condition.

If you have a question you want answered, write or call Mr. Editor, Tell Me, Please at the Morning World and News-Star. We'll be glad to get the information and pass it on to you each Saturday in this Column.

Can you tell me the source of the Joseph Kennedy (President Kennedy's father) fortune?

The elder Kennedy began as a bank president, then moved into steel and shipbuilding in the 1920's. He then built up a large fortune in the stock market, selling out just before the 1929 crash.

He continued with investments in Hollywood and entered the wholesale liquor business when repeal came. In the 1930's he specialized in buying real estate and made an estimated $100 million in this field alone. His total fortune from all enterprises is estimated at about $400 million.

Please define the word apartheid.

According to a statement of race policy, issued by the embassy of the Union of South Africa, here is what is meant by apartheid. It is a policy of separate development of the black and white races.

"Apartheid is the word that epitomises the government's policy towards the Bantu (the South African native tribes); it stand for the separate, orderly and systematic development of the European and Bantu, each in his own respective and geo-political homeland, each according to his own innate qualities, characteristics and disposition. Apartheid does not mean that the whites regard the Bantu as inherently inferior; the two races differ culturally, ethnically, socially and politically — differences which in the past regularly led to the establishment of separate autonomous states all over the world.

"Apartheid means a formula which in its essence embodies a comprehensive programme aimed at the overall uplifting of the Bantu peoples. By means of apartheid, the government anticipates the great socio-political developments which are today taking place throughout the non-white world. The only qualification is that South Africa would like to see its Bantu peoples advance orderly and systematically towards democratic self-rule (government) instead of haphazardly stampeding towards chaos and totalatarianism (anarchy).

". . . .the necessary machinery is being created by means of which the administrative, political and constitutional development of the Bantu can be guided in the direction of national self-determination and independence. Care is being taken to ensure that the tempo and scope of the development balance with adaptive capacity of the Bantu."

"This bill is the logical extension of the pattern and policy of the people of South Africa as regards color questions — a policy not created out of political hallucinations or ideologies, but one that grew out of experience, knowledge and realities over a period of more than 300 years.

"It is based on the simple but basic recipe for human happiness and human relations, namely that every human being is happiest within his own family circle; every family is happiest within its own community; every community is happiest within its own national circle. This principle is valid for all people irrespective of race or color all over the world. In fact, it is the only foundation on which good race relations, national relations and human relations can be organized.

"Our people's approach to color questions is not the result of fads of so-called world opinion or self-centered opportunism, but the result of its own Christian national outlook — the predominating approach of live and let live."

So, according to the information furnished by the embassy of the Union of South Africa, apartheid is a legally constituted policy of separation of the races in the nation — a separation which actually leads to separate nationhood.

In the most recent Legislature, Governor Davis signed a bill fixing teacher retirement after 30 years of service. Does this mean that 30 years of experience is the only requirement for retirement? Does it mean that if a teacher teaches more than 30 years her retirement income will be the same as though she stopped after exactly 30 years?

According to school officials, under the new law teachers must be a minimum of 55 years of age and have taught 30 years before they can retire. In answer to the second part, teachers going beyond the minimum of 30 years can retire with additional pay at a rate of one and one-quarter per cent for each additional year.

Isn't the city supposed to cut back shrubbery and tree branches that are extending out over city property and obstructing the view of commercial signs and business? Can anything be done under civil law in the event the government cannot move in this area?

City officials state that the city cannot cut shrubbery on private property under the city code unless it is obstructing traffic to the point of being dangerous. So the answer to the first part of the question concerning obstructing the view of commercial signs and business is no.

Under civil law, consult an attorney about entering an appropriate suit if a grievance exists.

What is the daily cost of protecting the life of the President of the United States?

No exact figures on this are available as it is not broken down in the budget. Here are the only available fgiures on this matter. White House police cost $1,732,000 annually. Secret Service protection comes from a $7,260,000 appropriation which includes counterfeiting detection. The Secret Service would not release any breakdown on its expenditures, claiming that to do so might benefit a potential assassin. No congressional source has the information but the Morning World's Washington bureau said the best guess is that from $1-2 million is left over from counterfeiting work for Presidential protection. It was pointed out that the White House police force does not only protect the President, but also guards the executive office building. Maximum total cost, then, would be about $2.3 million annually or $6,000 per day. The minimum estimate would be much less. A small part of this cost goes to protecting the vice president and the Secret Service maintains 64 offices throughout the United States.

What is the value of an 1878 silver dollar in a well preserved condition?

Silver dollars minted in 1878 are worth very little in monetary value. According to M. L. Phillips, a Monroe coin dealer, about the absolute maximum would be around $3. There were three different mints which produced silver dollars in 1878. Dollars minted at Carson City, Nev., bear a stamp of cc, dollars from San Francisco, Calif., and s, and those from Philadelphia, no stamp at all. Regular price for a dollar with cc would bring about $1.25, others would be worth little more than face value. An uncirculated 1878 dollar would be worth about $2, and an uncirculated dollar from Carson City bearing the stamp cc would bring around $3. The 1878 dollar also has different varieties of eagles on the back which influence the price somewhat. One eagle bears seven tail feathers, another type shows the eagle bearing eight tail feathers. A third type 1878 dollar has the eagle with eight tail feathers over seven, possibly resulting when the two plates were combined and made into one engraving.

How will the recent test ban treaty with Russia affect Red China's thinking since they were not invited to the meeting?

Judging from actions immediately following the test ban treaty, the Red Chinese are frustrated and angry as a direct result of the pact. The Chinese Communists have increased tensions in Asia. Notably Korea, Indochina and along the Indian border. A formal split with Russia seems imminent.

In a complete reversal, the Red Chinese who only a short time ago were vociferiously against curbs on nuclear weapons now claim the ban treaty is not strong enough, labeling it a "dirty fraud." They also contend it has no underground test provision and proposed a world conference to discuss complete prohibition of nuclear weapons.

Only time will disclose the sincerity, if any, of Red China's ban proposals, and whether Red Chinese deeds will match their words. But in light of recent developments it is apparent only as propaganda. Urging a stronger measure is a well-known ploy in power pliticis. Since most measures result from compromises, an opponent such as Red China in this instance can call for a stronger measure, simultaneously trying to appear as peace-loving while attempting to undermine a more workable, though weaker proposal.

The treaty promises to throw cold water on Red China's efforts to develop a nuclear weapon. Many scientific observers believe an A-Bomb for the Red Chinese will not come in the 60's. Meanwhile, the ban treaty is certain to place pressure on A-bomb hopes of Red China. Without the ban, Red China surely would have continued with impunity toward developing a nuclear weapon. With a ban treaty, the Red Chinese will find it increasingly difficult to maintain a peace - loving image before Asian countries while still carrying out testing. Without the ban, the Chinese Communists could have claimed development of a bomb was merely a justified measure of self-preservation, since other countries were carrying out tests.

Development of a nuclear weapon also has come to be a status symbol for some countries because of the scientific technology involved. If Red China at a later date should initial the pact with intentions of breaking it by secretly carrying out underground tests, the same secret tests would offer little status outside Red China if no one knew of them.

What can be done to eliminate noise caused by "squeaky" floors? I live in a downstairs apartment and it is quite a problem.

Squeaking floors result from loose floor boards permitting cracks, usually occurring when the tongue and groove of a floor board shrink, slip out of place or otherwise become mismatched. If the floor overhead is squeaking, the noise could be greatly reduced by blowing insulation between the floor and ceiling. The insulation will form a silencing cushion between cracks and serve to cut down overhead noise. If it is a downstairs floor causing trouble a wet mopping would help swell floor boards reducing the number of cracks. However, care should be taken not to put enough water on the floor to damage it. A mop slightly wetter than usual should do it.

TADDY AYCOCK TESTIFYS

Seeds Of Destruction Said In Rights Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock of Louisiana told a congressional subcommittee Friday the administration's civil rights proposals contain the seeds of destruction for constitutional liberty in America.

The Louisiana official told the lawmakers Congress should turn to a constitutional amendment "if it is considered that there is need for affirmative actions in the fields covered by this civil rights legislation which will, and must, seriously curtail the liberty and freedoms of the individual citizens.

The nation's people, Aycock said, "have the right to express their opinion, and to make the final determination as to whether these rights should be conferred upon the federal government."

The proposed act, Aycock said, "ignores the civil rights and civil liberties of home owners, business men, professional men, and all persons other than the minorities who are sought to be protected."

The bill, he said, "constitutes an unconstitutional concentration of power in the federal government, such as cannot be justified under any theory of constitutional interpretation.

"The act not only clearly violates the Constitution by extending the powers of the federal government beyond those permitted, but grants to the executive department power and authority which will erode and perhaps destroy the system of checks and balances so carefully imposed upon our governmental structure."

If the states cannot require segregation under the Constitution, Aycock said, then the federal government cannot require integration.

Aycock said as a southerner he was not in sympathy with the Supreme Court's ruling against state enforcement of segregation.

But, he said, "the decisions of the court apparently stand as the law today.

"As an American citizen," he said, "we must accept the situation which presently exists.

"This being the case, it is clear that if laws which compel segregation are unconstitutional because they constitute an invasion of rights and prerogatives guaranteed by the Constitution, then it must inevitably follow that any law which compels integration likewise constitutes an invasion of rights and prerogatives guaranteed by the Constitution and is necessarily likewise unconstitutional."

Aycock said there is no authority in the Constitution which would support federal action to force integration.

And, he submitted, "there is simply no constitutional basis for the proposed 'public accomodations' provisions of the present legislation.

"The central government just does not have the constitutional authority to dictate to the individual citizen the persons with whom he must associate or the manner in which he must use his property, or what individuals he can or cannot serve in his place of business.

"Every individual American citizen," he said, "has the constitutional right to be let alone in the orderly operation of his business."

Aycock said the public accomodations provisions of the proposed legislation would invade the constitutional rights of those individual American citizens who own and operate their businesses throughout the nation.

The Louisiana lieutenant governor struck at each section of the proposed legislation in his analysis.

Aycock told the subcommittee the individual citizen, under the Constitution, "can be as arbitrary or discriminatory as he likes and it is entirely his own affair."

He cited constitutional principles and judicial decision to back his argument.

"The individual right of self determination," Aycock said, "is essential to a free society, and, if through legislation such as this, an individual is no longer permitted to choose the persons he will or will not serve in his place of business, he is deprived of a fundamental right.

"And the first step has then been taken toward the elimination of all freedoms, and the acceptance of paternalistic domination of our individual lives by the central government," he said.

"We must never lose sight of the fact that, in every instance wherein one group obtains some preferential treatment by governmental action, the rights of some othre group are thereby to some extent taken away, and only the most overwhelming reasons should lead to such action."

U.S., Germans

BONN — U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and his West German counterpart Kai-Uwe Von Hassel announced agreement on joint development of a tank capable of firing nuclear-armed missiles. They failed to agree on the amount of military equipment NATO-member West Germany should buy from the United States next year.

CHRISTINE TREATED

Dr. Ward Hangs Onto Bare Life

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Stephen Ward clung to life by the faintest of heartbeats Friday while Christine Keeler, the call girl he introduced to the nation's elite, was under sedation in a serious nervous condition.

The heart of the 50-year-old society osteopath, who was kept "just alive" with the aid of an electronic lung, stopped beating Friday for the third time but picked up after doctors administered emergency treatment.

Ward was in a coma for the third consecutive day after he took a massive dose of sleeping pills in an apparent suicide attempt. He faces up to 14 years in prison on two vice charge convictions.

Doctors and nurses fought around the clock to keep Ward alive but friends in the gay circle the dapper doctor frequented said they believed he wanted to die.

CONDITION UNCHANGED

Friday afternoon's hospital bulletin said Ward's condition was unchanged and that he still was not breathing normally.

"The physician expressed increased concern for the patient at this time," the bulletin said.

Hospital sources said emergency lights flashed on when Ward's heart stopped as the osteopath lay gasping under mechanical respiration. They disclosed his heart faltered twice Thursday, but each time was restarted artificially, as it was Friday.

Meanwhile, Miss Keeler, the 21-year-old call girl on whose immoral earnings Ward was convicted of living, was disclosed to have been visited twice within the past 24 hours by a doctor who gave her sleeping pills to ease her tension.

Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies, the second playgirl on whose earnings Ward was convicted of living, visited Miss Keeler Friday and several attractive women called at St. Stephen's Hospital and left flowers for Ward.

The latest companion of the playboy who once boasted he was one of the greatest lady's men of the postwar era threatened earlier there would be new disclosures in the scandal that has rocked the nation for months and even endangered the government.

Julia Gulliver, a 22-year-old singer, said that if Ward dies she will expose more names of his upper crust friends.

"He is not going to let a lot of people get off scot free," she said. "There's a whole crowd of them right now praying for Stephen to die so their names won't be mentioned. If he dies I am going to make sure their names are mentioned."

Ward, unaware that he was found guilty on the two vice charges, was rushed unconscious to the hospital Wednesday morning just hours before the jury convicted him. The judge has deferred sentencing.

Clothing Trail Leaves Bobbies Minus 1 Shoe

The trail started at the foot of Ivinghoe Beacon, a hill used as a picnic spot. There the police found a three-quarter length white linen coat.

Still farther on they came to a garter belt and beyond that a brassiere.

She still had something to shed —a headscarf. The trail ended three miles from where it began with a pair of nylon stockings.

Bedford police have made a bundle of the clothing and are waiting for someone to claim it.

"I don't expect we shall find out the story until she turns up," said the chief constable. "And I don't expect she will, do you?"

JFK 'Carried Away' On Anti-Missile View

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy took a blacker view than even the more pessimistic Pentagon experts when he said development of an effective defense against intercontinental ballistic missiles "is beyond us technically."

Some authorities suggested that Kennedy "sort of got carried away" and overstated the admittedly very difficult problems while making an off-the-cuff reply to a question at a news conference Thursday.

The Kennedy statement rang alarm bells in the Pentagon, particularly in the Army, which has been pushing its Nike Zeus antimissile project for eight years.

Officials said the President's remarks did not signal any change in the direction of the missile defense project.

It already has cost about $1.4 billion, and is down for another $325 million this year under a broader, more advanced concept called Nike X.

Views among top Pentagon officials range from the Army's unflagging optimism to the severe skepticism of some Defense Department scientists and leaders, who believe the technical problems may be insurmountable.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Kennedy sold U.S. abilities short in his estimate of the difficulties.

"At the very least," Goldwater said in a statement, "the President would seem to be selling known American scientific and technological ability very short."

Among the skeptics are Secretary of Defense Robert S.McNamara and Dr. Harold Brown, the Pentagon's research and engineering director.

Kennedy did put his finger on the so-far unsolved technical difficulties that concern the scientists most—and give rise to the greatest doubts.

The President put it this way: "The problem is really one of discrimination, of being able to prevent saturation, of having to protect many targets while the adversary can select a few."

Discrimination is the term used to describe the ability to pick out the real nuclear warhead from among decoys an enemy would send out to confuse the defense.

So far, radar has not measured up. A new type of radar is under development, and the Pentagon hopes this will meet the discrimination challenge.

As for saturation, the Army acknowledges that an enemy could clobber any target if he wanted to concentrate missiles against it.

The Army advocates contend the presence of a missile killer would strain an enemy's resources and make it too expensive for him to mount a big enough missile force to knock out vital targets in the United States.

But key Defense Department officials, including Brown and McNamara, do not buy the idea of a partially effective system.

They fear that, even if the technical problems can be licked, the cost of deploying a proper system would be staggering.

Separate Development

The most recent drive promoted by the majority bloc in the United Nations is aimed at South Africa's policy of racial "Apartheid." No doubt, the newly emerging nations of Asia and Africa, joined by the Soviet bloc, will use all available tools of public relations to make the word every bit as ugly as "colonialism."

It is unfortunate that certain nations, sensitive about racial matters, would turn their collective wrath on the very areas of the world where progress between races of radically different backgrounds has been most obvious. These two areas are the Union of South Africa and the "Cotton South" of the United States.

Instead of calling segregation, as has developed in the southern part of the United States, or "Apartheid" of South Africa, by ugly names, other nations could afford to study the many solutions settled upon by the people who live under the actual conditions.

Positively speaking, South Africans term their progress for both white and Negro peoples living in that area "separate development." The southeastern states in the United States can point to a similar situation.

This has not been arrived at easily. Nor is it a static situation. But doesn't it seem reasonable that a sociological order of things, coming into an outline of its own over a period of several hundred years, functions better for all concerned than arbitrary theories put into law at bayonet point?

The Union of South Africa thinks so. The thinking people of the United States — inside and outside the South and members of all races — also agree. Experience remains the best teacher.

But African diplomats at the United Nations are reported working on a resolution for the Security Council which would call for economic and diplomatic sanctions against South Africa in order to force the abandonment of "Apartheid." Thus far, Liberia, an all-Negro African republic, and Malagasy, have taken the lead to support complaints of 32 African countries against the South African style of segregation. Foreign Ministers John Karefa-Smart of Sierra Leone and Mongi Slim of Tunisia opened the debate this week.

The United States has announced that a ban will be placed on the sale of military equipment to the republic.

These representatives and the great majority of those supporting the move against South Africa are not against their own brand of segregation. The North African nations have, through a series of civil wars, thrown out French and Spanish citizens. The United Nations, with generous amounts of United States financing, liquidated European influence and shipped the white people themselves from the Congo.

Some years ago, whenever there was talk of "sending the American Negroes back to Africa," it was laughed off as a highly impractical joke. But now that policy seems to be the thing to do with the Dutch, Belgians, Portuguese, Spanish, French and English whose families have lived in Africa for many generations.

The only spokesman for South Africa was Eric Louw, foreign minister for that nation. He branded as "totally unfounded" the allegation that his country with its policy of separate development is a threat to international peace. Louw charged that several African countries had contributed money to finance military and other activities against his government.

If nothing else, these arguments reveal the side of the fence on which Undersecretary of State for African Affairs, G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams stood when he said he was in favor of "Africa for the Africans."

Subsequent happenings show his remark meant he stood for a non-European Africa. If the final result of this means a shipping of all white persons living in that continent back to Europe or the United States, it is in itself a most segregated policy.

On the other hand, there's always the possibility that South Africa and what we know as the South may yet give the world a few pointers on how Negro and white citizens can live and develop as free individuals in the same communities.

Reds Active In Riots

The publisher of the Manchester, New Hampshire, Union Leader, "joined southern segregationists," according to a news service account, in leveling new charges of communism in the civil rights issue. We welcome the support of such men as William Loeb. But the wire service story fogs the issue somewhat by the implication that southern segregationists are the only major faction in the nation which sees communist influence in the rights demonstrations and disorders.

No less a person than J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has pointed out over the past year of the strong tie-in between certain key communist associates and Negro pressure group leaders. Hoover is hardly a southern segregationist.

The Morning World only this week carried the record of the testimony given by Loeb at a congressional committee hearing. Perhaps it did not coincide "down the line" with thinking generally prevalent in this part of the country. But his general attitude of "live and let live" offers a satisfactory solution to many social tensions in all parts of the nation, racial and otherwise.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy said following testimony of Governor Ross Barnett a week or so ago that there is no evidence of communist involvement in racial demonstrations around the country.

Loeb took occasion this past Wednesday to declare:

He added that the attorney general's position is "entirely unbelievable and entitled to no credibility whatsoever."

Loeb's testimony followed similar charges made by state Senator John C. McLaurin of Mississippi before the Senate Commerce Committee. That group was hearing testimony on the administration - backed public accommodations bill. McLaurin termed Attorney General Robert Kennedy's attempt to remove the communist stigma from the racial demonstrations "the most brazen cover-up job ever perpetrated on the American people."

Aside from the communist issue, many of the arguments against the civil rights bills have been centered about the interstate commerce law. The administration contends that since most all goods sold in businesses throughout the nation are those sent from state to state, that fact alone gives the federal government reason to have a say in the management.

Senator Sam Ervin Jr., a North Carolina Democrat, contended that the sale of goods after they had been brought into a state and come to rest within that state is not a transaction in interstate commerce.

Attorney General Kennedy tried to dodge this illustration by citing the Mann Act, which has to do with transporting women across state lines for immoral purposes. His comparison may have brought a laugh from his backers in the hearing room, but offered little by way of explanation as to why the federal government had the right to manage day-to-day customer relations.

Government Research Probe

White House Making Strenuous Efforts To Block Investigation Which Could Make Painful Disclosures

WASHINGTON — The White House is in a big sweat over that little-noticed House Rules Committee proposal for a sweeping investigation of the government's multi-billion dollar research and development operations.

Apparently fearful of embarrassing and politically painfuly disclosures, the White House is making strenuous undercover efforts to block the TNT-loaded probe.

More than $14 billion a year of taxpayers' money is now being spent for research and development; approximately two - thirds in contracts to private industry; some 10 per cent in grants and contracts to universities and other non-profit organizations; and the remainder by government agencies and scientists.

BUSILY AIDING the White House's scuttling maneuvers are a half-dozen powerful committee chairmen, spearheaded by Representative Carl Vinson, D-Ga., long-time head of the Armed Services Committee.

Reason for this remarkable backstage alliance is the feeling of these influential chairmen that the proposed investigation by a special "blue chip" committee would cut across their own jealously-prized jurisdictions and dig into matters they consider reserved wholly for them.

Other opposing committeemen are Representatives Harold Cooley, D-N.C., Agriculture Committee;; Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., Foreign Affairs Committee; George Miller, D-Calif., Science & Aeronautics Committee; Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., Education & Labor Committee; William Dawson, D-Ill., Government Operations Committee.

TO AID in axing the "blue chip" probe, Representative Vinson has directed one of his Armed Services subcommittees to immediately launch an inquiry of Defense research.

Representative Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman, plans to do that next week. Other members of his group are Representatives Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y.; Otis Pike, D-N.Y.; Jeffrey Cohelan, D-Calif.; Frank Becker, D-N.Y.; Durward Hall, R-Mo., and Robert Stafford, R-Vt.

Representative Howard Smith, D-Va., veteran chairman of the potent Rules Committee, proposed the sweeping research investigation without advance notice to House Democratic leaders.

It was a complete — and disturbing — surprise to them and the White House.

Particularly as Smith's resolution was bipartisan, with both Republican and Democratic signers, as follows: Representatives Carl Elliott, D-Ala., Richard Bolling, D-Mo., and Clarence Brown, R-O., one-time campaign manager of the late Senator Robert Taft.

Speaker John McCormack, Mass., sought out Bolling and told him:

"Your resolution has touched off a revolution. A half - dozen committee chairmen, whose committees have jurisdiction over agencies with huge research programs, are up-in-arms. They are girding to do battle against you. What's it all about?"

"YOU'LL HAVE to ask Judge Smith," replied Bolling. "It's his resolution, not mine. I signed it to find out what's going on. I've already heard from Carl Vinson. He told me he's going to fight us all the way."

Smith explained to his committeemen that he decided a sweeping investigation was necessary after making a private study of his own of a few research projects and being "shocked" by what he had uncovered. In a 24 - page speech he will deliver when his resolution is taken up in the House, Smith will particularly assail the Defense Department, National Aeronautics & Space Administration, U.S. Information Agency and the Disarmament Agency for "wasting millions of dollars" on useless research.

Under the Rules Committee proposal, the investigation would be made by a special five-member committee selected by Speaker McCormack.

Smith's personal choice for probe chairman is Representative Elliott, Ala., rated as a moderate and on good terms with both sides of the issue.

The resolution is certain of approval by the Rules Committee. Its fate in the full House is another matter. With the White House, Vinson and other important committee chairmen against the "blue chip" probe, its prospects are highly conjectural.

House insiders give it only a 50-50 chance. However, Republicans are expected to give it solid support.

TWO TOP White house assistants are in charge of dishing out research grants and contracts running into millions.

They are Ralph Dungan, member of the President's staff for many years, and Dr. Jerome Wiesner, science adviser to the President. Dungan usually has the final say on who gets what and how much.

An illustration is the Institute of Defense Analysis, headed by Richard Bissell, one-time official of the Central Intelligence Agency who had a major hand in the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion. Since Bissel became connected with this Institute, it has received $8 million in Defense contracts.

Three main guidelines are specified in the Rules Committee resolution for the proposed sweeping investigation, as follows:

1. What departments and agencies of the government are conducting research, at what cost and with what results.

2. What amounts are being expended by the various agencies and department in grants for research to colleges, private industry and every form of student scholarships.

3. What facilities, if any, exist for coordinating the various research programs, including grants to colleges and universities as well as scholarship grants.

THE PROBERS would be required to submit their findings and legislative recommendations by September 1, 1964 — just two months before the presidential election.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

5 Appendectomies

Writer Advises Oldster Against A Sixth Operation

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I consider it a privilege to nurse my husband. I am 58 and he is 62; I am healthy and he has had a stroke.

For almost 50 years he was a perfect husband and father of our children. It is the least I can do for him in appreciation. Yet, I have friends in similar circumstances who keep yowling at their hard luck and misfortune. They forget about the preceding years when they had everything. — Mrs. L.

Comment: Your husband is fortunate in having a wife such as you. Speaking of wives, I think you will be interested in the following by Francis Bacon, written a few hundred years ago: "Wives are young men's mistresses, companions for middle age, and old men's nurses."

YOUNG OLDSTER

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I am 72 years old, but look 55. I am active in sports. I bowl, cut the grass, ride a bicycle. I have been operated on five times for appendicitis, twice for gall stones.

It seems to me that my memory hasn't been too good lately. I remember things that happened in the past but forget what happened yesterday. Is this serious? — Mrs. W.

Comment: Your memory lapses for recent events are not unusual and certainly not serious. But here's one suggestion: don't let anyone make a sixth try for your appendix. Chances are they shouldn't find one now.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I'm curious! I have had an appendectomy, a baby, a slipped disc, etc I have had some unhappy times in my life, too. But I hardly remember these experiences.

Is this a matter of adjusting well or is all this past unpleasantness building up in my subconscious mind? Will it entail future difficulties? So many people never forget anything. — Mrs. B.

STARCH BINGES

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: A number of friends and myself formed a ridiculous habit when we were pregnant. We developed a liking for starch. It comes eight ounces to the box. We eat anywhere from a box a week to 10 boxes a week. Those of us who don't eat starch don't smoke or drink.

Some other friends say we'd better stop or we'll get cancer, diabetes or worse. What do you think? — Mrs. L.

Comment: Or worse? Just what do you mean by worse?

We have all heard of the sudden compulsions that may arise during pregnancy to have pickles, or strawberries and cream. Many a young husband has braved bad weather late at night to buy such things. But starch! I'm tempted to advise you to take up smoking or an occasional drink rather than keep on with these starch binges.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "Maybe Your Heart Trouble's Imaginary," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

Senator Fulbright Chooses Smaller Subjects In Probes

WASHINGTON — There are, any reporter will tell you, a good many things crawling under a good many rocks in Washington town — and all fair game for House or Senate investigators. It is therefore a little puzzling when the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, J. William Fulbright, starts swinging an ax at certain operators and lets the others go by. It is interesting, though not mystifying, when he goes after the little and medium-size fishes but makes sure to haul up his line when he approaches the big ones.

THIS IS what has been happening since Senator Fulbright began an investigation of "the activities of nondiplomatic representatives of foreign principals in the United States." Like everyone else in Washington, Senator Fulbright knows (or he should) that some important people on Capitol Hill were receiving considerable sums of money from such governments as the Trujillo regime in the Dominican Republic. The Trujillos, to be blunt about it, had a regular pay scale for all varities of elective officials in Washington.

But the individuals and the organizations being clobbered by the Senator and his right-hand man, Walter H. Pincus, are those having little to do with legislation. So far, they have also been the ones doing an honest and above-board job representing foreign principals. One by one, they have been scooped up in the net Mr. Pincus wields. He has gone to public relations firms working with foreign governments, microfilmed their records, and then hauled them before the committee. Mr. Pincus, those who read this column regularly will recall, attended a Communist-dominated youth festival in Vienna some years ago.

The Fullgright committee has very carefully stacked the record against some organizations — but failed to ask a single question when dealing with Administration bigwigs. Take, for example, what happened to Undersecretary of State George Ball. Mr. Ball appeared before Senator Fullbright and Pincus to give the views of his department on various matters involving the suspect activities.

BUT MR. BALL was asked nary a question about the work done by his law firm — when he was connected with it just before joining the Kennedy Administration. This is rather surprising. The Ball firm right up to the time he became a watchdog of American foreign policy, represented the government of France, the European Economic Commission, the European Atomic Energy Commission, and four other groups. In all seven cases it was required to register with the Justice Department as a foreign agent.

Among the major outfits handling foreign governments — the main thrust of the Fulbright investigation — is the law firm of Dean Acheson. Mr. Acheson received some public attention years ago because his firm represented the Communist government of Poland. But in 1960, it had moved onward and upward, registering for 17 clients under the Foreign Agents Registration Act. Among them were the Netherlands government; the Dominion of Canada; the embassies of Pakistan, Colombia, Denmark, Iran, and Venezuela; and the Royal Swedish Air Board. But the Fulbright Committee had no interest in Mr. Acheson.

IF SENATOR Fullbright was anxious to find out whether the "activities of nondiplomatic representatives" were having an undue influence on the legislative process, he might also have subpoenaed Oscar Cox, chairman of the Commission on International Rules of Judicial Procedure. Mr. Cox's law firm's activities, taken from Justice Department records, included the French and Italian governments; the Belgian and Austrian embassies; and other governmental and quasi-governmental bodies abroad.

None of this interested Senator Fulbright or Mr. Pincus. They were too busy looking into the services performed for newspapermen by public relations firms employed to supply information and photographs to interested writers.

AT THIS point, it is hard to determine just what the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is achieving. So far, the published hearings show an inordinate curiosity about the business methods of organizations against whom nothing has been adduced. There must be a reason why they were called, but the Senator just ain't telling.

Red-Oriented Ben Bella Finds Russians Never Reach For Purse

PARIS—Algeria's Castro, Red-oriented Ben Bella, dangerous as a camel's kiss, is having his troubles with the Sino-Soviet hooligans.

After wrecking President de Gaulle's Evian accord with former President Ben Khedda's provisional government, by which Algeria won independence, and seizing power, he's made an interesting discovery. When it comes to really reaching for their purse the Russians never do this—never.

FRENCH officials here tell me Russia's aid to the collapsed economy is presently little more than squads of demolition experts pulling up the French mines buried along the Tunisian border.

Ben Bella's hand-to-heart relations with Egypt serve him no better, and Nasser's recent visit brought Algeria nothing but yackety-yackety-yack.

With typical Red ingratitude he has turned his back on Tunisia, to whom he owes so much as a sanctuary for his troops while Ben Khedda's men were doing the fighting against the French.

On his order border envy sparks his relations with King Hassen II, whose excellent relations with France and the Western powers are now buttressing a veritable boom in Morocco.

BEN BELLA praises Tito, and Yugoslav influence in Algeria has grown surprisingly strong. But in a flight into fantasy that can do him no more good than an iron anvil in a plate of soup, he reserves his greatest acclaim for Fidel Castro.

Outraging President Kennedy's own delegation by systematically making them feel like second-class citizens, Castro's bloody-fisted hatchet man, Ernesto "Che" Guevara, was Ben Bella's absolute guest of honor at his July independence anniversary celebration.

In fact, on departing the celebration in Mr. Kennedy's own White House jet, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield left a letter behind for Ben Bella, telling him in good Montana language that he was insulted to have been used as such a patsy.

WHY DIDN'T anybody tell Mr. Kennedy about this obvious booby-trap in advance? Why must the White House everlastingly be surprised?

Ben Bella has not nationalized the internationally-owned and very important Sahara oil properties as Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal. This great development of a major energy source on the south rim of the Mediterranean within the Western powers' interior lines of communications is of fundamental strategic importance because it helps relieve Europe's dangerous dependence on far-off and vulnerable Arabian area oil.

STATESMEN here saw Europe all but grind to a halt when Nasser closed the Suez route, and the lesson learned hasn't been forgotten. Happily, the Sahara petroleum asset seems secure to the West for the moment.

Ben Khedda, whom Ben Bella torpedoed, has gone into total eclipse. In fact, he's returned to his home village and opened a pharmacy--lucky to be alive. Names that were world-wide news a year or so ago are submerged under the assassin who whirled the longest knife. With Algeria's "freedom" totalitarianism is in the saddle.

What the Islamic world and the Western world cannot well stand, however, is this elimination of the moderates whose work for independence was against Red dictation and toward the welfare and dignity of the Islamic peoples as a whole. French officials here state such men are now thwarted.

SOME MONTHS ago I described Ahmad Kamal as one of former Algerian President Ben Khedda's traveling men in Iron Curtain countries.

I am glad to say that investigation indicates that Ahmad Kamal was, instead, a friend of Algeria moderates and frequently sought to act as a mediator between rebels and the West.

He was engaged in early efforts to establish a West-oriented moderate regime for a free Algeria, seeking through the good offices of the United States an early end to bloodshed in the Algerian revolution.

Ahmad Kamal, a Colorado-born American of Turkish descent and Muslim religion, has devoted much of his life to education and relief of the world's Islamic peoples.

MISSISSIPPI PRIMARY

Candidates Unite Against Kennedy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Attorney Charles Sullivan of Clarksdale said Friday he was the only Democratic candidate for governor who could unite Mississippi in a battle against President Kennedy's New Frontier.

Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson and former Gov. J. P. Coleman, his opponents in Tuesday's Democratic Primary, represented factions and he did not, Sullivan said.

"I am the only candidate who can unite all factions and lead Mississippi's effort in a united drive with other Southern states to turn back the new frontier," Sullivan said in a statement released in Jackson.

"Both Mr. Coleman and Mr. Johnson have political machines developed over many years and are heavily obligated. If either should be elected the other faction would immediately oppose the administration.

"Also both of them have stated they will not work with Republicans, although the Republican party must be reckoned with in the future."

Because he has no political obligations, Sullivan said, incurred over years of campaigning he would be free to serve all citizens without regard to factions.

"If Mississippi is to unite the South, we cannot be divided ourselves," said Sullivan, making his second race after running a strong third as an unknown in 1959.

Coleman warned agaist voters being led by "eleventh hour endorsements" of himself that would be designed to hurt his chances for election to a second term.

"Last minute endorsements used by professional politicians and those who consider themselves politicians are always done as a matter of routine, although you would think they should know better," Coleman said.

"They are not always intended to help the one endorsed but rather a sly way of hurting him. Some of these purported endorsements are beginning to appear now in the last three days of the campaign."

In a statement issued at Jackson, Coleman said he wanted voters to know that he was "absolutely" not the candidate of any pressure group or organization in the state.

"Neither are we taking part in any race for any other office anywhere in Mississippi," Coleman said.

Troy Watkins of Natchez, candidate for lieutenant governor, urged young persons to "supply the force of new energy, vitality and enthusiastic determination" needed to contribute to the prosperity of the state.

"The great need today is for our youth to have the desire to fight for what they believe. Today, too many of our people assume a defeatist attitude," Watkins said in a speech at Coldwater.

As a first step, Watkins called for youth to work for withdrawal of government from a "whole series of programs that are outside its constitutional mandate," beginning with defeat of President Kennedy in 1964.

Miss Evelyn Gandy, state treasurer, asked for election as lieutenant governor on basis of 20 years experience in government.

"For our own safety and welfare the next administration must be progressive, constructive and united," Miss Gandy said on Tupelo television.

She emphasized her service as former state representative and a assistant attorney general and as treasurer since 1960.

mit the Soviet Union to overcome any margin remaining to the United States and eventually establish marked superiority?

"If the Soviet superiority were gained, would the peace of the world be in safer hands when the United States enjoyed the edge?"

They said that to gain answers to these and other questions, there must be thorough examination of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, officials of the Atomic Energy Commission, nuclear experts and intelligence officers.

—Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., announced the Senate Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee which he heads will begin its hearings on the pending treaty Aug. 14 with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as leadoff witness. Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., proposed that all Latin-American nations, including Cuba, join in a treaty to establish a nuclear-free zone in the Western Hemisphere.

Mansfield said this would be a significant step beyond the U.S. Soviet-British limited test ban. He added that any such treaty should provide for inspections to insure against the presence of any nuclear weapons in any of the signatory countries.

—The State Department sought to reassure West Germany that even if Communist East Germany should subscribe to the new test ban treaty, it would not constitute U.S. recognition of the Red regime.

In a prepared statement, the department called attention to President Kennedy's assurance that the treaty "does not provide for recognition of East Germany and we will not recognize it."

—Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., said he couldn't vote for the treaty in the absence of some conspicuous act of good faith by Khrushchev. He suggested withdrawal of Soviet personnel from Cuba, destruction of the Berlin wall or a halt to Communist aggression in Laos and South Viet Nam.

Rusk and other top advisers met with Kennedy for 45 minutes Friday in a final strategy session. The formal signing of the treaty to outlaw all but underground atomic tests is slated for 4:30 p.m. Monday, Moscow time, at the Kremlin.

A half dozen senators — members of the Foreign Relations, Armed Services and Atomic committees are among the U.S. delegates.

They are Democrats J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, John J. Sparkman of Alabama, and John O. Pastore of Rhode Island, and Republicans Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and George D. Aiken of Vermont.

Other delegates include U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson; East-West affairs adviser Llewellyn Thompson; disarmament director William C. Foster; former test ban negotiator Arthur Dean and Glenn Seaborg, Atomic Energy Commission chairman.

Notably missing from the senatorial delegation are Dirksen and Sen. Bourbke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, top-ranking GOP member of the Foreign Relations Committee. Both said they did not want to go to Moscow for the signing and have left it open how they will vote on the treaty, which requires for ratification a two-thirds majority of senators voting.

Mrs. Rusk and wives of most of the other delegates were also making the trip on the military jetliner leaving from nearby Andrews Air Force Base.

While other delegates were expected to return to Washington after the signing, Rusk has agreed to stay for three or four days as a guest of Foreign Minister Andre Gromyko.

While Rusk is expected to do more listening than talking, it was reported that he may ask Khrushchev what guarantees the Soviet leader has in mind for Berlin in his proposed non aggression pact.

Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman was said to have raised the Berlin question when he was negotiating the test ban but Khrushchev made no offer of a Berlin guarantee.

Hearing Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities will conduct a public hearing Monday on unauthorized visits of U.S. citizens to Cuba, the committee said Friday.

In the wake of an announcement by President Kennedy that some of the recent travelers may face sterner penalties than loss of passports, the committee said the hearing will help determine whether new legislation is needed.

Kennedy said at his news conference Thursday that the passports of students now in Cuba will be lifted on their return and "in addition, other steps may be considered in regard to a few who are not students but who are Communists."

equipment for defense, such as air-to-air missiles and torpedoes for submarines.

There were no figures available on total U.S. military trade with South Africa. Britain and France have been reported as the major suppliers of arms.

Stevenson described as "both bad law and bad policy" any applications of sanctions by the council. He said it would not bring about "the practical result we seek — the abandonment of apartheid."

He said that far from encouraging talks between the government and its African population, "punitive measures would only provoke intransigence and harden the existing situation."

As for cutting diplomatic relations with South Africa, as recommended in a General Assembly resolution last fall, he made this observation: "Persuasion cannot be exercised in a vacuum; conflicting views cannot be reconciled in absentia."

He appealed to the council to make further attempts to build "a bridge of communication, discussion and persuasion" with South Africa. He said the United States favored appointing a special representative of the council to explore all possibilities for a peaceful soution.

Stevenson spoke as delegates consulted privately on what kind of resolution or resolutions might be submitted.

Under consideration were requests for sharp economic penalties, including an embargo on oil shipments. This would meet opposition from the United States, Britain and France.

Some African nations were reported in favor of a decommendation from the council to the General Assembly that the latter suspend South Africa's membership under a provision in the U.N. charter making that penalty applicable against nations subjected to previous U.N. preventitive action.

Negro Is Struck By Car; Injury Is Only Minor

A 58-year-old Negro sustained minor injuries when struck by a car on Powell Avenue Friday night, as minor thefts and accidents occupied local law agencies here.

The Negro, Gilmore White, of 402 Owl St., sustained lacerations of the head. He was hit at the intersection of Powell Avenue and Owl Street as he walked into the path of a car driven by Charles L. Hargrave, of Galliano. Hargrave, 53, was driving north on Powell Avenue and did not see the Negro in time to avoid hitting him. No charges were filed by investigating Monroe police in the accident which occurred at 7:50 p.m.

In other action, three persons were booked for theft in Monroe Friday. Two women, Grace B. Granberry, 45, of Rt. 2, Columbia Rd., Monroe, and Billie I. Luton, 58, of Rt. 2, Columbia Rd., Monroe, were booked in connection with a shoplifting incident at Plum Street Safeway Store. They were held under $360 bonds. A Rayville man, Charles W. Robinson, was booked for theft on a warrant obtained for him. He was held under a $110 bond.

Late Friday, Monroe police booked Nellie R. East, 37, of 509 Lincoln Rd., Monroe, for theft in connection with a shoplifting incident at a grocery store. She was released under a $350 bond.

Late Friday evening, three persons sustained minor injuries in a three-car collision at the intersection of I-20 Highway and U. S. 80, west of West Monroe. Taken to Glenwood Hospital for emergency treatment of minor bruises and abrasions were two West Monroe Negroes, Betty Jones, 21, and Johnny Powell, 19. A third person, Delores Miner, 18, of Corpus Christi, Tex., complained of pain but was not treated at a hospital.

Investigating state police said the accident occurred when Mrs. James F. Miner, 36, of Corpus Christi, Tex., headed off the I-20 highway, made a wrong turn onto an unfinished section of the highway. Upon realizing her mistake, she turned around and was once again attempting to turn onto U. S. 80 when she collided with a car driven west on 80 by Negro Lee McClendon, of West Monroe. His car knocked into a third auto, driven by Charles W. Young, 30, of Florida, who was stopped on the exit ramp of I-20, attempting to turn in an easterly direction onto U. S. 80. Mrs. Miner was ticketed for failure to yield-right-of-way.

Still Takes 2 To Marry—He Won't Join In

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — It takes only one to get a marriage license, but two to get married.

As a result, Betty Miller, 21, has a license but her intended bridegroom, Frank H. Kimball, 31, who knew nothing about it, said he had no intention of making the trip to the altar.

Miss Miller admitted she was trying to force the issue when she applied for the license at the Hennepin County clerk of courts office.

Although she said she and Kimball planned to get married "sometime," Kimball had other ideas.

In fact, Kimball said he planned to marry another girl whom he has been dating for several months.

Miss Miller and Kimball met a year ago and, she said, he gave her a ring. But when the license plot failed to work Thursday, she said she returned the ring.

Orleans To Get New $8 Million Chemical Plant

NEW YORK (AP)—Air Reduction Sales Co. announced Friday it would build a plant worth more than $8 million in New Orleans to produce gaseous and liquid oxygen, nitrogen and argon.

The firm, a division of Air Reduction Co., Inc. of New York, said the plant would have a capacity of 1,000 tons a day.

It will be adjacent to the Michoud aerospace fabricating center on a 50-acre site fronting on the intracoastal waterway.

The facility, the firm said, will be provided with a distribution system of barges for transporting the gases. Barges will be especially designed to sustain temperatures as low as minus 320 degrees.

The company said the decision to build in New Orleans was based on an expected broad demand for the gases by the man-to-the-moon program and by area civilian industries.

A contract for construction of the plant was expected to be awarded soon. No date has been set.

Oxygen is widely used in space propellants, in metal fabricating and in chemical processing. Nitrogen is used in many chemical and petroleum industry processes and, in liquid form, is being used increasingly in flash-freezing foods.

Accident Fatal For Six; One Seriously Hurt

SILVER PLUME, Colo. (UPI)—Six persons were killed and another seriously injured in the flaming head-on collision of a pickup truck and a station wagon on a mountain highway during a rainstorm Friday.

The only survivor was 16-year-old Jeanie Fraley of Lafayette, Colo. Authorities had not identified any of the dead.

The state patrol reported the pickup truck was passing three vehicles while heading east on U.S. 6—downhill on the east slope of Loveland Pass—when it skidded out of control on the wet road. The truck was poised across the highway when it was truck broadside by the station wagon.

The lone occupant of the pickup and four of the six persons in the station wagon were killed outright. Another died en route to nearby Idaho Springs, where Miss Fraley was treated before being transferred to a Denver hospital.

Crash Kills 2

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — Two persons, one a member of a nationally known stunt-flying family, were killed Friday in the crash of a light plane in a farm about eight miles south of here.

Rolly G. Cole, 23, Ft. Wayne, Ind., the pilot, died when his Searman biplane crashed as he practiced stunts for the annual fly-in of the Experimental Aircraft Association at Greater Rockford Airport.

A passenger in the plane, Melvin H. Stickney, 39, Emerson, N.J., was also killed. He was identified by a card in his wallet as a flight instructor for Pan American World Airways.

Court Approves Injunction For Danville Strife

DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—The city of Danville was granted a permanent injunction Friday against demonstrations that have marked the community's civil rights struggle during the past two months.

The injunction order, signed by Corporation Court Judge A. M. Aiken at the end of a five-day hearing, largely follows but adds a couple of teeth to the temporary injunction Aiken granted June 6, one week after the first racial demonstration.

One enjoins the defendants from "participating in, financing, sponsoring, encouraging or engaging in meetings or other activities whereby the violation of the laws of the Commonwealth of Virginia, or the city of Danville or the terms of this injunction are suggested, advocated or encouraged."

The tooth enjoins the defendants from "engaging in any act in a violent and tumultuous manner or holding unlawful assemblies such as to unreasonably disturb or alarm the public within the city of Danville."

The defendants, all Negroes, are the Revs. Lawrence G. Campbell and Alexander I. Dunlap: Julius E. Adams, a taxicab driver; Arthur S. Pinchback, a domestic worker; and all persons similarly situated."

More than 300 Negroes and several white persons have been arrested in recent weeks on charges of violating the temporary injunction against demonstrations and on charges of violating city ordinances restricting picketing and prohibiting parades without permits.

The last of those arrested on such charges were released from jail on bond this week.

Attorneys for the defendants refused to endorse Aiken's order on grounds that the permanent injunction was not the same as the temporary one, as they said they had understood it would be.

"The only issue here was the perpetuation of the temporary injunction," said J. L. Williams, Negro attorney.

Aiken's courtroom is in the City Hall, where the front steps are barricaded to prevent sit-ins such as occurred in the city manager's office early in June. Other entrances to the building are manned by city employes assigned as security guards. The building overlooks streets patrolled by state troopers sent in to beef up the city's police force.

West Affords Best Possibility For Marriage

NEW YORK (AP) — Go west, young lady!

Go west, that is, if you want a better than average chance to get married.

Statistics released Friday by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. showed that marriages increased for the fourth straight year in 1962, and were above average in seven states-five of them west of the Mississippi River.

The country showed a 1.9 increase in the number of marriages, which totalled 1,579,000.

However, there was a 12 per cent increase in South Dakota and a 6 to 8 per cent rise in Washington state Idaho, Nevada and Oklahoma, and a similar hike in Tennessee and New Hampshire.

Canada, however, showed a decrease for the third straight year.

Canada Renews Sale Of Wheat With Red China

OTTAWA (AP)—Red China has agreed to purchase between 112,000,000 and 186,700,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in a new three-year agreement dating from Aug. 1, Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp's office announced Friday.

The amounts were the same as those in an expiring agreement signed in April 1961.

There was no mention of barley in the new agreement. The first one included a maximum 46,700,000 bushels of barley and 28,000,000 were delivered.

The initial quantity to be delivered under the new agreement will be 18,670,000 bushels of wheat in the period from Aug. 1 to Jan. 31.

Goldwater Challenges Statement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater Friday challenged President Kennedy's statement that a defense against missiles may never be devised. He suggested that the President was selling U.S. technology "very short."

The Arizona Republican's comments referred to Kennedy's news conference statement Thursday that anti-missile defense is presently "beyond us and beyond the Soviets" and may never be accomplished.

Goldwater said the President "debunked the idea" that explosion of large nuclear weapons in the atmosphere would help in the anti-missile field. The President, he said, "neglected to explain" that only by using such large explosions could their effects on communications and their adverse effects on radar be determined.

The answer to those problems is "critical" to the development of an anti-missile missile, Goldwater said, and the information "could already be in the hands of the Russians as a result of their last series of heavy megaton weapons tests."

"We cannot afford the luxury of assuming that the Soviets have not made substantial progress merely because the problem is difficult," Goldwater said.

Lawsuit Is Filed Against Elevator On Dust Charges

PORT ALLEN, La. (AP)—Court records showed Friday George T. Butler has filed suit against Cargill Grain Elevator, claiming grain and soybean dust from the facility caused his asthma.

Port director C. W. Herbert said a dust collection system now included in the grain elevator prevents a serious dust problem from plaguing the area.

He said also there are no homes immediately adjacent to the grain elevator.

Butler filed a petition in court six months ago seeking $127,500 damages for his asthmatic condition.

The Port Allen man said he was diagnosed as having an athmatic condition in June, 1961. He claimed the diagnosis revealed the condition began in 1957 and grain and soybean dust caused it.

The petition noted Butler's asthma condition apparently began developing about the time the grain elevator went into operation. He said his house lies less than one mile south of the elevator.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T AKERS
United Press International

The Civil War, like all wars, consisted of occasional battles separated by long periods of boredom.

"Hurry up and wait," was as good a wisecrack in the Civil War as it was in World War II.

The first week in August 1863 was one of those periods of little military action. There was the usual skirmishing along the lines where much powder was burned with few results.

Even skirmishing sometimes palled on the soldiers doing picket duty. From time to time they declared their own little armistices and traded between the lines for the small things that made army life a bit easier. Union soldiers swapped coffee, of which they had plenty, to Rebels, who had none, for tobacco, of which the graycoats had plenty.

These interludes usually lasted an hour or so and then the soldiers who had been fraternizing went back to the grim business of killing.

About this time Pvt. Elisha Stockwell, Jr., of the 14th Wisconsin Infantry was bored and needed money. He was on garrison duty at Natchez, Miss. He had fought at the siege of Vicksburg and now time hung heavy on his hands. He set out to augment his $13-a-month pay. He was just 17 and already a veteran of two years, wise in the ways of getting along as well as fighting.

Years later he wrote about an interlude at Natchez:

"One day I was with a boy about my own age that belonged to another company. He had found where he could sell Confederate money for ten cents on the dollar, and we could buy it for from three to five cents. We made forty dollars that day. But we bought some of a 33rd Wisconsin boy that was printed on white paper. It was just imitation of Rebs' money, but wasn't signed. We colored the paper with coffee and got Nate Clapp, of my company, who was a good penman, to sign it. We had a genuine bill for a sample, and passed it all right. But the Reb citizen we sold it to found out it was counterfeit, and wouldn't buy any more from the Yanks. So we ruined our business by being dishonest."

Pvt. Robert Patrick, a native of Clinton, La., and a member of the 4th Louisiana Infantry, was having his troubles, too. His regiment had been on the way toward Vicksburg when the city surrendered to the Federals under U. S. Grant. Now he was retreating in Mississippi. He made these entries in his diary:

"Aug. 8 — . . . Jim Blow and I rode about three miles in search of water. We at length found some muddy, stagnant stuff, but we were very glad to get it. We raked off the black scum and pitched into it . . . These open woods are very hot — the tall pines afford no protection from the sun."

On one Eastern theatre, all was quiet along the Rappahannock, too, where Col. Charles S. Wainwright, a Union artillery officer from Rhinebeck, N.Y., was camping with the Army of the Potomac.

He wrote:

"Aug. 3 — Another piping hot day . . . The house where we are camped belongs to Mr. Bowen, a rebel, but is now inhabited by a man by the name of Smith, from Culpeper, a good Union man . . . It is a large house of considerable pretentions outside with a dooryard of fine sod on which our tents are pitched. The general has a room in the house; his staff tents are along one side and my two just at the right of the front door. We have an excellent well of water in the yard, which is a great thing in this part of the country. Today we managed to get a little ice, but our claret is out . . ."

George Templeton Strong, treasurer of the Sanitary Commission, the Civil War equivalent of the Red Cross, was in New York reading the newspapers and wrote his impression of the time:

"Aug. 4 — Only news is the death of that notable scoundrel, W. L. Yancey, and the serious illness of the larcenous Floyd. The gallows don't always get its due in the world, but the Devil commonly gets his in the next; and if all men are to be judged by the quality of the mischief they have done and of misery they have caused, these deliberate authors of Civil War deserved a hot corner in Tophet . . ."

(William Lowdnes Yancey, one of the early advocates of secession, died July 27, 1863. John B. Floyd was secretary of war under President Buchanan. He became a Confederate general and died at Abington, Va., Aug. 26, 1863. Both Yancey and Floyd were considered traitors in the North.)

"Aug. 8 — Newspapers brag too loudly about our having 'broken the backbone' of the rebellion and about the development of Union feeling in Tennessee, Mississippi and North Carolina. The vertebrae of Southern Treason still cohere, as we may yet learn to our terrible cost . . ."

(His reference was to exaggerated newspaper stories about recent Union victories at Gettysburg and Vicksburg. As usual the North overestimated the immediate results and began to say the war was about over. Strong forecast better than he knew.)

Across the lines from Colonel Wainwright, Gen. Robert E. Lee took note of criticism against him for losing the battle of Gettysburg. It weighed on his mind and on Aug. 8 he wrote to President Jefferson Davis:

" . . . The general remedy for the want of success in a military commander is his removal. This is natural, and in many instances proper . . . I have been prompted by these reflections more than once since my return from Pennsylvania to propose to Your Excellency the propriety of selecting another commander for this army (The Army of Northern Virginia) . . . I therefore in all sincerity, request Your Excellency to take measures to supply my place . . . no one is more aware than myself of my inability . . ."

There was much more in the letter. He spoke of "the growing failure of my bodily strength" and said that "I am so dull that in making use of the eyes of others I am frequently misled." He thought "a younger and abler man" might be found. He praised his army as "gallant and brave an army as ever existed."

For the first time in the war Lee was discouraged.

Davis replied at once.

"Where am I to find a new commander who is to possess the greater ability which you believe to be required?" Davis wrote. "If Providence should kindly offer such a person for our use, I would not hesitate to avail of his services . . . Our country could not bear to lose you . . ."

Lee stayed on to fight another 20 months.

The exchange of letters was not made public, presumably because it might depress the already low spirits of the South.

The Confederate Post office department was the only one on either side which made a profit during the Civil War. The Confederate Constitution made a profit mandatory. The profit was achieved by tripling the postage rate.

Negroes Think Government Aid Given On Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz said Friday Negro leaders feel the executive branch of the government is doing everything possible to open jojb opportunities to them.

The secretary defended the President's Equal Employment Opportunity Committee when asked why no government contracts have been cancelled because of discrimination against Negroes.

The exchange took place at Senate employment subcommittee hearings, between Wirtz and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. Javits asked Wirtz if the lack of cancellations means all discrimination has been removed from every government project.

Wirtz said cancellation is a "last step," only after conferences and other measures have failed.

He said five companies had been told they would get no more government contracts but had been removed from this suspension list when they changed their practices.

Javits said the program has not been given the "money, muscle and law that is needed" to carry it out.

Wirtz agreed. But he said Negro leaders indicated to him they believe the committee is doing everything it can.

Wirtz said the committee has made fair employment opportunity agreements with 105 companies employing more than 5 million persons and with 118 international affiliates of the AFL-CIO having a combined membership of almost 13 million.

But he said the tendency is to relax after an organization subscribes to a principle.

Chairman Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said his subcommittee hopes to get out a bill establishing a fair employment practices commission before the end of August.

Skopje Slated To Be Rebuilt On Same Site

SKOPJE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — City officials announced Friday the Macedonian capital of Skopje will be rebuilt on its present site.

Plans to rebuild the city were under consideration a few hours after the earthquake struck on July 26 but the thinking at that time was to place it away from a line of faults which has produced more than 200 tremors in recent days.

But today, Mayor Blagvje Popov said work will start immediately to rebuild the city's four largest government structures because the existing site is too vital a traffic hub for the municipality to be placed elsewhere.

The earthquake destroyed more than 85 per cent of the city's buildings and left more than 2,000 persons dead.

Popov's statement that "Skopje shall rise again" became a sort of national slogan. It was one of Yugoslavia's model cities, with a population of about 200,000.

Popov said the final death count, when all possible bodies have been recovered, will total more than 2,000. Twelve more were recovered in the past 24 hours, he said.

Many survivors left the city to find shelter elsewhere.

The quake destroyed about 35,000 buildings, Popov said. He announced they will be replaced by modern apartment structures and that about 10,000 damaged homes will be repaired.

Burma Diplomat Envoy Is Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy on Friday nominated Henry A. Byroade, a career diplomat, to be ambassador to Burma.

Byroade, 50, now is chairman of the disarmament advisory staff of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

He will replace John S. Everton, who has resigned from government service.

Byroade is a graduate of the Military Academy at West Point and has an engineering degree from Cornell University. He reached the rank of brigadier general in the Army and during World War II served in various commands in India, China and in Southeast Asia.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

MEDICAL BROWSING

The Japanese, following World War II, developed several psychiatric problems in shifting from the traditional familism and authoritarian way of life to individualism and democracy. In addition, a greater rift than usual exists between younger and older generations as a result of economic changes.

According to a report in the Medical Tribune, wives no longer are submissive to their husbands, teachers have lost authority over children, divorce rates are going up, and juvenile delinquency is on the increase. The incidence of suicide continues to be high and ranks first or second among certain age groups of the younger generation. Psychiatrists have a special problem because the Japanese cling to the belief that mental diseases are hereditary, hence incurable.

Some people use poor judgment when grocery shopping. They unscrew caps on food jars, sometimes taste the food, and return them to the shelves. The item is now contaminated. This is serious when the jar contains baby food.

The Committee on Nutrition of the American Academy of Pediatrics urges mothers to observe the warning instructions on caps of baby food jars. One cap has a flexible button that pops up when the lid has been unscrewed. Another has parallel lines that become discontinuous when the cap is turned.

A new disease has been discovered among children — eraserophagia. Two West Virginia radiologists X-rayed the abdomen of an 8-year-old and the film showed "numerous discrete opacities widely scattered through the colon." Close questioning of the girl revealed she was in the habit of nibbling on erasers as she sat in class. These were too opaque to cast a shadow under the X-ray and showed up as white spots.

A 12-year-old boy manifested the same condition. The physicians, not to be outdone, then swallowed some bits of erasers. But only those containing a harmless substance, lithophone, appeared on the X-rays as white spots.

DISPLACED DISK MATERIAL

H. H. writes: Is a hernia of the spinal disk the same as a slipped disk?

REPLY

Yes. In the strict sense, the disk itself does not slip but its inner soft material herniates or protrudes through the edge of the disk and presses upon the spinal cord or a nerve. The cause of this condition is weakness or degeneration of the edge of a disk.

INFLAMED THYROID

S. C. writes: I'm 50 years old and have been suffering from thyroiditis for six months. Cortisone and hormones have not helped. How long does this disorder usually last?

REPLY

Thyroiditis is difficult to correct. Other treatments include thyroid extract, X-ray therapy, and surgery, depending upon the nature of the infection.

TOO MANY CHROMOSOMES

S. L. writes: Would a chromosome test determine accurately whether an infant is a mongoloid? This is a borderline case.

REPLY

Yes. Most mongoloid babies have 47 (instead of 46) chromosomes. Tests of this type usually are made on cells removed from the mouth or skin.

BREATH HOLDING

R. L. writes: Will holding the breath put a strain on the heart?

REPLY

Yes, especially when done forcibly. Holding the breath tends to block the flow of blood that enters the heart.

Best-Manned, Best-Equipped Crew Is Claimed

LORAIN, Ohio (UPI) — Firefighters from nearby Black River Township boast the best-manned, best-equipped fire department in the whole world — four engines and 26 men protecting a total population of seven persons.

Fireman Clarence Geisel made the claim at a four-day convention here for volunteer firemen from 440 communities.

He said Black River kept its fire department when the city of Lorain annexed most of the township, leaving only a sliver of land and four houses under the jurisdiction of township trustees.

"Eventually Lorain will annex the remaining strip of land, I suppose," said Geisel, "but until it does I'm confident no one can contest our right to the title."

So far no one has.

Judge's Son Faces Trial On Homicide

NEW YORK (AP)—A judge's son, Gareth Martinis, was indicted Friday by a Bronx grand jury on a vehicular homicide charge in a parkway crash that took five lives. Three of his father's colleagues on the bench previously had cleared him of criminal negligence.

Martinis, 23, thus far has suffered only a revocation of his driver's license subject to review in 30 days—for his part in the fatal accident May 19. The case has aroused a storm of public indignation in New York.

Martinis posted $1,500 bond before Bronx Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Quinn, who set no date for trial on charges that the youth operated his car "in a reckless and culpably negligent manner."

Quinn also held over the grand jury, scheduled to end Friday, until Aug. 15. The district attorney said the jurors wanted "to study the testimony of all the witnesses to consider whether any perjury had been committed."

It was understood the jurors could consider the testimony of those who appeared before it and also those who testified at the trial that cleared Martinis. Conflicting testimony by police officers had been cited as a factor in the acquittal.

"When the truth is known, I shall be cleared," Martinis told newsmen.

His lawyer, Philip Edelbaum, told the court: "I don't think the defendant, because he is a judge's son, should be treated any differently, especially harshly than anyone else. He is innocent despite the outcries of the press."

The indictment contained five counts, covering each of the victims of the auto accident. Martinis could get five years on each count if convicted—a total of 25 years.

"We think the chances of conviction are very good," said Dist. Atty. Isidore Dollinger, who pressed the homicide case against Martinis after a three-judge panel took only five minutes to acquit him of reckless and drunken driving, and leaving the scene of an accident.

Dollinger contended Martinis is not being prosecuted again for the same offenses charged in the earlier trial, but for an entirely different offense. Prosecution of a man a second time on charges of which he already has been acquitted places him in double jeopardy—a position outlawed in American courts.

The judges who acquitted Martinis are Ambrose J. Haddock, Morris Weinfield, and Francis X. O'Brien, all associates on the Bronx Criminal bench of the youth's father, Judge Joseph A. Martinis.

Weinfield denied the panel was influenced by Martinis' family connections.

"We made the only possible decision we could make under the circumstances," he said.

The Bronx Criminal Court Bar Association, after an inquiry, said: "To imply the defendant, Martinis, was tried by some special panel of 'friends' is a completely unfounded and unfair attack upon the men who sat in judgment on this difficult case."

Witnesses at the Criminal Court trial, held without a jury, testified Martinis was traveling at up to 90 miles an hour the evening of May 19 before his car rammed a second one on the six-lane Henry Hudson Parkway in the Bronx. Martinis claimed out of court that another car cut him off before the collision.

Witnesses said they saw Martinis near the scene after the crash and that he appeared unsteady on his feet. Eventually, he disappeared and turned up at a friend's apartment, where police were called.

Some officers said he seemed drunk, others classed him as sober. He refused to take a drunkometer test, and police said he smashed a news photographer's camera and bit a policeman's hand after his arrest.

If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 8-3

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

If you, as a newspaper reader, have conceived the idea that Miss Christine Keeler was handled in rather an extraordinary fashion for a chippie in a vice trial, be assured you are not alone.

There is no precedent for the kid gloves treatment the redhaired star witness for the Crown has been granted in this case.

First of all, the prosecution had promised her immunity if she would tell the truth at Old Bailey, no matter how "the truth" might conflict with any previous testimony she had given at any of the numerous trials and police investigations and magistrates hearings in which she had been involved.

That in itself is not too preposterous, since she had turned Queens evidence, although this was probably a matter the Queen would prefer not to discuss.

But consider that Miss Keeler some months ago had been shot at by John Edgecombe, one of numerous lovers. The gun used by Mr. Edgecombe with so little success belonged to Miss Keeler, but she has no license for it.

The British police usually take a very dim view of citizens who hold weapons without licenses, but Miss Keeler was never charged with that offense.

When it came time for the proper authorities to try Mr. Edgecombe for attempting to murder Miss Keeler, naturally she was scheduled to appear as the star witness for the prosecution.

However, when the case came up, Miss Keeler did not show in court. She was on a holiday in Spain with a couple of friends when she should have been giving her eyewitness testimony.

But the accused Mr. Edgecombe was convicted without her, and handed a seven-year prison sentence, and Miss Keeler did not get so much as a slap on the wrist from the law for absenting herself at a crucial time.

Now we may take up the matter of narcotics. Miss Keeler herself has testified in the witness stand at Old Bailey that she used marijuana - or "Indian hemp" as it is called by the bewigged barristers over here--and that she and Dr. Stephen Ward, the defendant in this celebrated case, used to drive around to various places to obtain it, but that she was always the one who went in and asked for it while he stayed in the car.

There are in Britain some quite stringent regulations against the purchase or possession of narcotics. But queerly enough, Miss Keeler's predilection for Indian hemp has been known to the police since 1961 yet she was never charged with the offense.

It seemed to amuse the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Marshall, to pretend that he thought the Fourth Estate was guilty of exaggerating this case beyond the norm and giving "false emphasis to this fact and present distorted pictures."

This is twiddle-twaddle and the perceptive judge knows it. It is, in fact, beneath his dignity to suggest to the jury that the newspapers exaggerated this case.

The newspapers do not have to enlarge on any facts in a story when the Secretary of State for War, as in the instance of Mr. John Profumo, rises in the House of Commons to swear that he is innocent of any wrongdoing with a 21-year-old harlot, and a couple of months later takes the floor of Parliament again to say so sorry, he lied: he really had engaged in illicit relations with Miss Keeler.

This is a case beyond need for exaggeration. Even when presented in its simplest form it is scarcely credible, so the pretense that journalists endowed it with an importance it did not deserve is not only false but rather vulgar in its patently erroneous implication.

One was tempted to say "come off it, milord. Your are not confined in such a tall ivory tower that you are astonished by the interest of the newspapers when a Cabinet member resigns in disgrace. You do not seriously maintain that the Fourth Estate is at fault when it records history made in and by the House of Commons.

"What would you have, Mr. Justice Marshall -- newspapers which silence the facts because they are unpalatable, or because they thrust distinguished personages into headlines of a size usually reserved for thugs?"

If I had any need to explain my interest in the Ward case to the learned judge, I could point out that I have been covering stories about crimes since I was 17 years old, and this is the first time I have ever been assigned to a case of procuring.

Ordinarily, the trial of a man charged with living off the earnings of prostitutes would not rate three paragraphs in my paper or any other reputable publication.

But when you have a man accused of selling the favors of young women to a Cabinet member and a Russian diplomat simultaneously, and you have security police and Scotland Yard superintendants tripping over each other in a Keystone comedy that is also a political tragedy, you can hardly ask the Fourth Estate to abdicate its responsibilities and take a recess from printing the truth while The Establishment wriggles out of its embarrassment.

If one of the Queen's ministers elects to perjure himself in Commons, the Queen's subjects have the right to know about his perfidy, and no two ways about it, Milord.

RAPS ORGANIZATION

Head Of Farm Bureau Resigns From RAD Sets

BATON ROUGE (AP) —James D. Graugnard, president of the Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation, resigned Friday from the state Rural Areas Development (RAD) committee.

"I cannot conscientiously serve," Graugnard said, "on a committee which by its very existence would appear to be endorsing federal imposition of intolerable conditions on a Louisiana employer."

At the same time, the powerful farm organization set in motion machinery to pull all its members out of parish RAD committees.

The group complained of new "anti - discrimination" regulations of the federal agency.

RAD is a federal agency that makes government loans at low interest for any project it decides could be an inducement to industrial development in an area.

In Louisiana, loans are currently in effect or pending on projects ranging from canning plants to motel expansion.

The Farm Bureau's target is article 307 of the Area Development Administration's new regulations, publishd July 24.

Thse regulations require anyone receiving assistance under the act to assure that employment in any RAD program be made available "to qualified persons without discrimination based on race, color, creed or national origin."

They also apply the "non-discrimination" regulations to subcontractors and all persons who sell supplies to contractors on ARA projects.

The employer is required to furnish reports on employment practices and provide statistics to the President's committee on equal employment opportunity.

This is in compliance with President Kennedy's executive order of June 22, which Graugnard said had its language and intent rejected by Congress on five different occasions.

"I will not be, nor would Farm Bureau members expect our organization to be," Graugnard said, "a party to helping this branch of the federal government impose the restrictions on employers called for in the ARA regulations.

"These regulations also have broad and frightening implications," he said, "in the whole field of federal - state relationships. I don't see how any Louisiana citizen can endorse or even accept such controls."

Shooting Mishap Fatal To Local Resident Friday

A 29-year-old West Monroe man, James Ivy Holton, was killed instantly when he accidently shot himself while cleaning a rifle at his home Friday afternoon.

Ouachita Parish Coroner Dr. John Burton said the blast from the .32 - winchester rifle ripped through his left chest and shoulder apparently hitting the heart. The coroner and investigating deputy sheriffs ruled the shooting accidental.

Holton was found in the yard by his mother, Mrs. Emma Holton, around 5 p.m. at the family home at 128 Violet St., West Monroe. He had been cleaning the gun, and according to deputies, had shot the gun twice with his brother in the process. After the brother left, Mrs. Holton heard the gun go off a third time and when she went out to investigate found him. Investigating officers believe he must have jarred it while cleaning a rust spot off, causing it to discharge and strike him.

Funeral arrangements for him are incomplete, but will be under the direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Emma Holton, West Monroe; and a brother, Jackie Holton.

Holton is survived by his widow, and two daughters, Robbie Sue and Janet Denise, both of Monroe, and a son James Richard Holton, Monroe; his mother, Mrs. Emma Holton, West Monroe; a brother, Jackie Ray Holton, West Monroe; and two sisters, Mrs. Jesse Kinman, and Mrs. Annie Kane, both of West Monroe.

The remains will lie in state at 122 Violet St., West Monroe, until time for services.

ENTERS GUILTY PLEA

Ethics Crusader Is Tax Violator

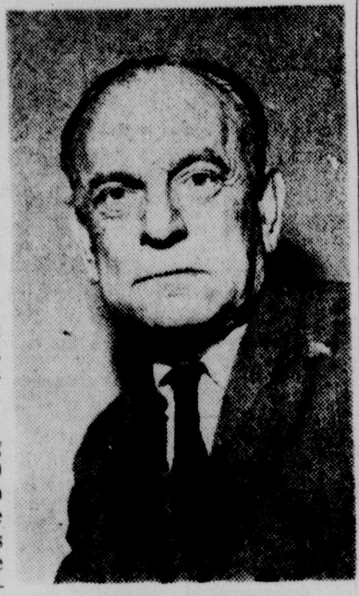
By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—James M. Landis, one of the nation's foremost legal minds and a longtime crusader for ethics in government, pleaded guilty Friday to late payment of five year's income tax. He faces up to five years in prison.



JAMES M. LANDIS
. . . Tax Violator

He is a former dean of the Harvard Law School, who served under three Democratic presidents in advisory or regulatory posts. He began his government career in 1933 under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and concluded it two years ago as an adviser to President Kennedy.

Landis' explanation for being late in paying taxes on $3,100,000 in income was that he became so engrossed in public affairs that he never got around to filing returns until after the Internal Revenue Service called him on his tardiness. He then made full settlement.

This amounted to $94,492.36, about one quarter of which represented penalties and interest on the taxes due, the government said.

Landis was a colleague of Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau during the New Deal days of the 1930s. The man who brought the tax case against Landis was Morgenthau's son, U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau.

The last government post held by Landis was as White House adviser to President Kennedy on government regulatory agencies. He was outspoken in his condemnation of unethical practices by heads of government agencies.

Landis resigned Sept. 7, 1961, the same day he was named co-respondent in a Washington divorce suit. The suit later was dropped.

The tax case against the 63-year-old Landis came in the form of an information handed up by a federal grand jury—in effect, an indictment on misdemeanor rather than felony charges. It accused him of being laggard in payment of taxes from 1956 through 1960.

The maximum penalty to which Landis' guilty plea subjects him is one year imprisonment on each of the five counts, plus $50,000 in fines. Judge Edward McLean scheduled sentencing for Aug. 30, and freed Landis until then.

Morgenthau said Landis in relation to his tax affairs "did not meet government standards of voluntary disclosure."

The federal prosecutor said Landis only recently filed the late returns, but that he had cooperated fully in the federal investigation of the matter.

Dean William Warren of the Columbia University Law School served as attorney for Landis.

"No outstanding balance was open. The taxpayer did not use the money due the government for his own personal advantage or needs. In fact he maintained bank deposits and liquid funds to make timely payment of the taxes had the returns been filed when due," Warren said.

Landis, born in Japan of American missionary parents, was law secretary to the late Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis when Roosevelt summoned him to Washington. He helped write the Securities Act of 1933, and in 1935 became chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

In 1937, Landis returned to his alma mater to become dean of Harvard Law School, a position he held until 1946. During World War II, Landis headed the Office of Civilian Defense. Later, he served as chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, until President Harry S. Truman replaced him in 1947.

Statement Text Read By Counsel Of J. M. Landis

NEW YORK (AP)—Following is the text of a statement to the court in the income tax case of James M. Landis as read by his counsel, Dean William Warren of the Columbia University Law School:

"The failure to file timely income tax returns was initially due to the unavailability of information concerning the tax basis of certain securities inherited by the taxpayer some 30 years earlier, which he had sold in order to meet a pressing family need.

"Subsequently, the taxpayer, being deeply engrossed in public affairs and the affairs of clients, neglected his own personal matters, including the income tax returns, and mistakenly delayed filing returns for any subsequent years, until he could complete the return for the first delinquent year.

"All information available to the taxpayer relating to reportable transactions was kept by him in separate tax return files, and he attempted on several occasions, prior to any question by the Internal Revenue Service, to prepare the returns. He was never able to complete the returns. Finally, he engaged an accountant to prepare the returns, which were then filed by the taxpayer.

"After the returns were filed, the taxpayer appeared voluntarily before examining agents and cooperated fully in providing all relevant data regarding his transactions for the years involved."

Chemical Union Picketing Plant At Baton Rouge

Turncoat Speaks

HONG KONG — Korean War turncoat Lowell D. Skinner, en route back to the United States after nine years in Red China, said the withdrawal of Soviet technicians from China in 1959 caused economic chaos and contributed to the failure of the "great leap forward."

Exemption For Japan On Tax Possible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Treasury Department announced Friday it will consider exempting Japan from the proposed tax on foreign investments only if the Japanese experienced "serious economic difficulties."

The Treasury said only then would it consult with Japan to discuss "appropriate measures that might then be taken to meet the problem."

In a joint statement by both governments, the department disclosed it was setting up a special joint Japanese-American economic "consultative tax force" to keep a close watch on the problem.

The statement indicated that the possibility of economic difficulties in Japan at present was "contrary to United States expectations."

The statement was issued after Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira conferred with President Kennedy, Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon and other high U.S. officials to discuss Japan's position under the proposed capital tax.

President Kennedy has recommended enactment of the tax as a means of stemming the flow of dollars from this country—a condition that has aggravated the U.S. balance of payments deficit.

The statement noted that the proposed tax legislation would allow for exemptionc from the tax if it threatened the stability of a foreign country.

The announcement of President Kennedy's proposed program two weeks ago caused prices to plummet on the Japanese and Canadian stock exchanges. It was later announced that Canada was to be largely exempted from the proposed tax.

"It was agreed," the statement added, "that if — contrary to U.S. expectations — serious economic difficulties were to arise in Japan, the United States would consult with Japan on the appropriate measures that might then be taken to meet the problem."

Aerialist Hurt

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An aerialist was injured Friday when she fell from a wire at the Ringling Bros. & Barnum & Bailey Circus during an afternoon performance at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, circus officials reported.

The aerialist, Donna Welsh, 20, was taken to a hospital where a spokesman said her injuries were not serious.

Cardinals Defeat Philadelphia, 3-2

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ray Sadecki aided by a spectacular eighth inning defensive play, pitched the St. Louis Cardinals into sole possession of second place in the National League with a 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night.

The Phillies had one run home and John Callison, representing the typing run, on second base when Tony Gonzales doubles off the right-center field wall. Curt Flood made a quick recovery and hit cut-off man Julian Javier, whose throw caught Callison sliding at the plate.

Sadecki allowed the Phils only six hits in the eight innings he worked, with Ron Taylor and Bobby Shantz finishing up.

The Cardinals moved a game ahead of San Francisco, 12-11 loser to the Chicago Cubs Friday afternoon.

Jencks' Sure Toe Provides Margin

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

CHICAGO (AP) — The deadly passing of Ron VanderKelen and the unerring toe of Bob Jencks gave the College All-Stars a stunning 20-17 victory Friday night over the Green Bay Packers, National Football League champions the last two years.

The Packers were favored to win by two touchdowns, but with their Golden Boy, Paul Hornung, under suspension for betting on games, they showed only in spurts the flash that made them the league's best.

Going into the final period with the score tied at 10-10, the All-Stars first forged ahead 13-10 on a 33-yard field goal by Jencks, an end from Miami, Ohio, and then sewed it up when VanderKelen passed from the collegiate 27 to his former teammate at Wisconsin, Pat Richter, who went all the way to score.

The Packers came back for a touchdown with only six seconds left, Jim Taylor scoring on a one-yard plunge after a 63-yard drive, but it was too late.

CHICAGO (AP)—Statistics of the College All-Stars-Green Bay Packers football game:

| | All-Stars | Packers |
|---|---|---|
| First Downs | 16 | 15 |
| Rushing Yardage | 141 | 96 |
| Passing Yardage | 183 | 169 |
| Passes | 15-21 | 19-33 |
| Passes intercepted by | 1 | 1 |
| Punts | 2-30 | 2-48 |
| Fumbles lost | 1 | 1 |
| Yards penalized | 13 | 77 |

The crowd of 65,000 at Soldier field went wild when the final gun sounded and the Collegians had scored their first victory over the professional champions since 1958. Last year, the Packers won 42-20.

The game started off as if the Packers would make mincemeat of the collegians. Boyd Dowler got off a terrific punt to the All-Star eight and then Willie Davis recovered Larry Ferguson's fumble on the 12. Bart Starr passed almost 10 yards to Tom Moore, and Taylor plunged the rest of the way.

But the collegians were undaunted. With VanderKelen passing unerringly, the collegians went all the way from their 29 to the Packer 14. There, with the ball held down on the 20, Jencks kicked the first of his two field goals.

The collegians then forged ahead when Tommy Janik intercepted one of Starr's passes on the All-Star 45 and ran to the Green Bay 27. VanderKelen passed to Richter on the six and Ferguson promptly slanted off tackle for the touchdown.

The Packers came back to tie it 10-10 on Jerry Kramer's field goal from the 21 after a drive featuring Tom Moore's 27 yard run.

That was the way the half ended, and the way the final, exciting period started.

The victory marked the ninth for the All-Stars in this 30th renewal of the classic. Two have been tied. The game is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities. It was played in muggy weather but threatened rain held off.

The Packers appeared to need not only Hornung, who ran the ends to set up Taylor's off-tackle slants and Starr's passes, but also Ray Nitschke, a sturdy linebacker who is injured.

VanderKelen now goes to the Minnesota Vikings. He ran the team like an old hand professional and completed nine out of 11 passes for 141 yards and one touchdown.

Glynn Griffing of Mississippi, who has been signed by the New York Giants, also looked good while piloting the All-Stars down field in the final period prior to Jencks' second field goal. He completed six out of 10 for 37 yards.

Herb Adderly played a strong defensive game for the Packers, deflecting an attempted field goal by Jencks from the 19 as the first half ended, and intercepting a pass in the third period on his 43. He ran to the All-Star 20. The Packers could not capitalize on the opportunity, however, and Jerry Kramer's attempted field goal failed.

Charlie Mitchell of Washington, who has been signed by Denver of the American Football League, showed great speed in the backfield. One decisive factor for the collegians was their big line, that included such giants as Lee Roy Jordan of Alabama, a Dallas choice, and Danny Brabaham of Arkansas, a Houston selection.

George Hurls One-Hitter As Swartz Rolls

Carrol George spun a one-hit shutout Friday night as Swartz defeated National Guard, 3-0, in an Amateur League contest.

George was at his best throughout the game. He struck out 11 Guardsmen, walked four and allowed his only hit in the fourth inning when right fielder Don Wattigny singled.

Meanwhile Swartz was racking Jerry Lovett for 12 hits, the most collected by a team all season, and scored single tallies in the fourth, sixth and seventh innings.

First baseman Bob Groves headed the heavy attack with three singles and he scored two of his team's runs.

In the fourth Groves singled and raced to second on a bingle by Gee Scott. George sacrificed them up a base and Groves scored on a bunt single by Billy Smith, his first of two bunt hits during the contest.

Groves led off with a single in the last inning, went to third on a hit by Clifford Ramsey and then scored on George's second saftey.

Palafox Is Back To U.S. Davis' After Funeral

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Top seeded Antonio Palafox of Mexico's Davis Cup team will play in the American Zone semifinals here after attending the funeral of his father in Guadalajara, it was announced Friday.

Officials of the Los Angeles Tennis Club said there had been some doubt as to Palafox playing when he first received word of his father's death Thursday.

Palafox defaulted a quarter-final match in the Canadian Lawn Tennis Championships to Keith Carpenter after being informed of the death. He was leading 12-10, 1-6, 4-1 when he left the court.

Mexican Davis Cup Capt. Pancho Contreras said he hoped to accompany Palafox back to Mexico. The rest of the Mexican team is expected to arrive in Los Angeles Sunday to begin preparation for the Aug. 16-18 American Zone semifinals against the United States.

DIXIE BOYS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Laws Homers In 7th As West Monroe Wins

Pinch - hitter Pete Laws uncorked the biggest blow of the Dixie Boys State Tournament here Friday when he slammed a home run in the bottom of the seventh inning to give West Monroe a 1-0 victory over Monroe and the state championship.

The dramatic victory was the fourth straight win of the tournament for West Monroe, only undefeated team in the affair.

The state champs are now set to participate in the Dixie Boys World Series which will be held next week in Hattisburg, Miss.

West Monroe will leave for the tournament Sunday and plays its first contest Monday afternoon at 3:00 against Florida.

The team, managed by James Hearne, will be housed at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The loss was a heartbreaker for Stewart who allowed only five hits during the contest but West Monroe's Holloway was even better as he allowed only one hit, a single by catcher Buddy Wright.

Holloway struck out nine men and didn't issue a single base on balls. Stewart was near the winning hurler in both statistics with eight strike outs and only one walk.

Monroe never threatened seriously during the game and West Monroe had men in scoring position only a couple of times.

The big defensive play which nipped the threat came with Bruce Booth on second and Tommy Cox batting. Cox lined a hit to right field and Glen Moore quickly retrieved it and fired to second baseman Ken Peters who then relayed to home in time to retire Booth.

The following inning, Randall Cloyd, who swung a booming bat for West Monroe the entire series, powdered a long double to put Monroe in trouble again. But he was thrown out by Buddy Wright at third base on an attempted steal.

Pizarro Pitches 2nd Place Sox To Fine Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Chicago left-hander Juan Pizarro scattered seven hits for a 5-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Friday night, pulling the second-place White Sox to within seven games of the American League leading New York Yankees.

The triumph brought Pizarro's record to 13-5.

Dean Chance was touched for seven hits by the White Sox in the six innings he worked. They got to him for two runs in the second, and that turned out to be enough for Pizarro.

Jim Landis was hit by a pitched ball, went to third on Tom McCraw's single, and came in on Ron Hansen's infield out. McCraw scored on J. C. Martin's single.

McCraw singled again in the fourth, stole second and continued on to third as catcher Bob Rodgers' throw hit him and rolled into center field. Martin's long sacrifice fly to left brought McCraw home.

The Sox made it 4-1 in the sixth as McCraw tripled with one down and raced across the plate on a passed ball.

THE SPORTS SCENE

with Keith Prince

Monroe golf fans followed the PGA tournament in Dallas closely through newspapers and TV two weeks ago but one local golf pro was there for the opening day and came back with some interesting reports.

Johnny Myers, club pro at Municipal, was in Dallas during PGA week to go

Johnny Myers, club pro at Municipal, was in Dallas during PGA week to go here through the Ben Hogan golf factory, take in a day of the big tournament and talk with Hogan himself.

He accomplished all these things and you can imagine which impressed Myers the most — his chat with Bantam Ben.

"Every good thing that has been said about Hogan must be true," Myers said with a smile "because he is one of the most remarkable men I've ever met. He is a fine gentleman, very sincere, and among the top golf authorities in the world.

"He's the type who doesn't talk just to make conversation," Myers continued. "If he says something it has a definite purpose and a real value behind it."

When asked about Hogan's personality off the golf course he said, "Of course, everyone has heard about his seriousness and concentration on the course and I was a little surprised to see how friendly he is.

"He spoke first, and by first name, to most everyone around the club. The respect people have for this man is something, and now I know why he is respected so much," Myers said.

Myers handles Hogan's golf equipment and was there with two other pros and one company salesman to go through the factory in Dallas and become familiar with new styles, club heads, shafts and other pieces of equipment Hogan sells.

Hogan has been manufacturing golf equipment for around 10 years," said Myers, "and although this is a relatively short time his products are used by many of the top name pros now.

"Many companies have standard clubs which they sell at sporting goods stores but Ben does all of his selling through golf pros, men who know what they are selling, and by company salesmen."

Myers said that Hogan designs each club himself and does this by trying different types of clubs time and time again to see what model will be the best for certain situations.

"One reason Hogan is so respected by the people in golf is because he has made the game and his development of clubs a science," Myers reported. "He does everything by trial and error and has a reason for his decisions about the product he sells."

To point out the quality of Hogan's clubs, Myers told of the number of pros who use them.

Some of the big name players such as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Julius Boros all use some of Hogan's equipment.

It's really a little funny to see some of them with it," "Myers chuckled, "because they all endorse other companies."

There is no pressure put on them for using his clubs because most golf fans don't notice what type club they use.

Palmer is associated with the Wilson company but still uses a Hogan driver, Boros has a sand wedge by Hogan and Player even went so far as to use his companies' new type of shaft but had a Hogan club head put on it.

"The companies can't gripe too much, because if their representatives are not winning and getting their name in the headlines then the product they use won't sell as well," Myers said.

This again proves Hogan is respected by the men who play the sport.

We asked Myers how Hogan looked physcially now and his reply was, "real fine, in fact he played the afternoon we did and the three men he played with all rode around the course while Hogan walked.

Myers ask Ben if he planned to play anymore and he said definitely yes. He had wanted to play in the Western Open but his practice rounds hadn't been going too well and he decided against it.

"Hogan is a man of intense pride," stated Myers. "He didn't feel like he could make a good showing in the Western so he wouldn't go."

He is planning on playing several tournaments in a row to get the feel of his game back. Any tournament in the country would be happy to have Ben play in it. Wonder why?

Before The Tournament

On Wednesday, preceding Thursday's first round of the PGA, a driving contest and clinic was held.

Myers said the most impressive thing of the contest was Jack Nicklaus' driving.

"I've been watching pros since 1939 and have never seen a man with more power than Nicklaus," Myers remarked.

Johnny said Hogan was also very impressed with Nicklaus. Hogan said Palmer and Nicklaus were both terrific but that off the tee Nicklaus hit the ball higher, straighter and longer than any golfer he had ever seen.

"The courses today nearly all call for power," said Hogan and for this reason he believes Nicklaus has a slight edge over the rest of the pro field.

Myers said the touring pros are really something to see. We asked him if Palmer is as colorful as has been said.

"Yes, he puts on quite a show and the gallery loves it. Actually they all have a big time," said Myers.

During the first round, play was held up a few minutes while Palmer, Boros, Doug Sanders, Don January and Tony Lema were all near the same tee.

They all began kidding each other about the type of equipment each was using and other little things just to ease the tension.

"Palmer was one over par at the time," added Myers "and I was a little surprised to see him joking so much. But it all helped break the tension.

Myers had words of praise for three young golfers on the tour.

"Raymond Floyd, who is under 22 years old also looked sharp. He hits the ball well and is a good student of the game."

The other man he was impressed by was Bruce Crampton of Australia. Bruce is about 26, has won a couple of tournaments and seems headed for success.

"Yes, it was quite a trip, one I won't forget anytime soon," said Myers.

Physical Fitness

William Noonan, state supervisor of health and physical education, was in Monroe recently to give lectures on physical fitness to several classes at Northeast State College.

Noonan, Baton Rouge resident, is one of the top authorities in Louisiana on physical fitness programs and has just returned from Europe where he was part of a group which held clinics for the armed forces.

"We were there talking to the U. S. Air Force bases about physical fitness. It wasn't limited to just the enlisted men, but was made available to all persons on the base, including women," Noonan said.

"Our trip consisted of clinics in Turkey, Germany and England By the way,' he remarked, "we used Northeast's John Pennel as an example of development in the arms.

"I had heard John could do about 26 chin-ups consecutively so I spoke of him often in my talks.

"It backfired a little on me one time," the state official quipped. "In London I was telling about the number of chin-ups Pennel could do and a big strapping Englishman stood up and reported that he could do 51. Well, it toned me down a bit but still 26 chin-ups is a good workout for an average man."

Noonan went on to say that Pennel was well known in Europe, and this visit came in late June, before he was chosen to replace Brian Sternberg. In fact, Noonan learned Sternberg was injured just as he was returning home.

"The people there think very highly of Pennel and of most all United States star athletes. We were told often during our stay that much emphasis is given to the American sports program by European athletic followers.

"They believe that besides the space program the United States' athletic accomplishments go farther than anything in proving America is still stronger than Russia," Noonan continued.

This alone shows that physical fitness is most important to our country's world position as Noonan pointed out.

When asked if the people in Europe kept up with athletic events in the United States (such as major league baseball, pro football, etc . . .) the state supervisor said, "Yes, they are definitely interested in the sports programs here. Naturally, they don't keep up with the fine points of the games or outcome of races but they do know of outstanding accomplishments by American athletes."

New Cage Rule

CHICAGO (AP)— Coach Ray Eddy of Purdue told the annual fall meeting of the U.S. Basketball Writers Association Friday that the new rule stopping the clock on the whistle will extend the average time of a college game three to four minutes.

The writers awarded a plaque for last season's outstanding college basketball brochure to Wake Forest sports publicity director Marvin Francis.

It was announced the National Association of Basketball Coaches will sponsor its second annual East-West game at Lexington, Ky. March 28. Proceeds go to the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame.

ST. PAUL OPEN

Jack Rule Has Record Round

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Jack Rule, former University of Iowa star seeking his first professional victory, got a strong grip on the 35,000 St. Paul Open Golf Tournament Friday with a sensational 11-under-par 61.

The 24-year-old Rule's second day performance broke the tourney record of 62 shared by three players. And his 67-61—128 for the two rounds was one shot better than the 129 set by Jerry Barber in 1956.

Rule held a four-stroke lead over Jerry Pittman of Tulsa, Okla., who had 67-65 for 132.

Don Fairfield of Perdido Bay, Fla., who trailed by one shot after the first round, was in third place with 65-69—134. Fourth was Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex. who fired a 65 for a 135 total.

First day leader Jim Ferree of Corona, Calif., three-putted three times and wound up with a 74, ten shots over his opening round. He was well back at 138.

Rule, while breaking two tourney records over the 6,567 yards of the Keller course, also tied the St. Paul Open's first-nine mark of 30, as did Hawkins.

He missed a birdie on the 17th, when he knew he had a chance at the tournament record.

"I had an eight footer that I choked on," he recalled. "I just had to shake it off the end of the putter."

Hawkins, in carving out his 30 on the first nine, birdied the first five holes with putts ranging from four to 20 feet. He got his sixth birdie on the seventh hole with a 20-footer and did not shoot another one until the last two holes of he round.

Tied one stroke back of Hawkins at 136 were Barber and Charles Sifford, both of Los Angeles.

Four had 137's including Bruce Crampton, of Sydney, Australia, Dave Hill, Jackson, Mich., Raymond Floyd, Fayetteville, N.C., and Pete Brown, Los Angeles.

Tigers Get Win, Over Cleveland In 10-9 Slugfest

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit built a 10-2 lead with three homers and two big rallies, then withstood a Cleveland counterattack for a 10-9 victory over the Indians Friday night.

Rocky Colavito, who accounted for three big Detroit runs with his 17th homer in the seventh, prevented Cleveland from tying the score with a spectacular catch and strong throw to the plate during the Indians' seven-run outburst in the eighth.

With the tying run on third, Colavito made a backhand catch of Max Alvis' foul drive above the left field bullpen, and fired home so quickly that the runner, Larry Brown, was forced to retreat to third. After an intentional walk loaded the bases, reliever Terry Fox ended the threat by fanning Sammy Taylor.

Bill Burton and Norm Cash also rapped home runs for the Tigers, who had been held to two unearned runs in their last three games.

Jim Bunning got credit for his eighth victory in 19 decisions, although he was chased when the Indians sent 13 men to the plate i nthe eighth. Willie Kirkland had a home run and double in the inning and Joe Adcock a pinch three-run homer. Fred Whitfield's two-run homer in the second accounted for both Cleveland runs until the eighth.

Jim Grant, now 7-10, was the loser.

Maloney Pitches Redlegs To Win Over Pittsburg

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati right-hander Jim Maloney posted his 17th victory with a four-hitter and Vada Pinson cracked a three-run homer that provided all the runs in the Reds' 30 triumph over Pittsburgh Friday night.

Maloney, a 23-year-old right-hander who had a modest 97 record last year, has lost only three games and is tied with Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Juan Marichal of San Francisco for the most victories in the majors.

Pinson's homer in the sixth broke a scoreless duel between Maloney and Don Cardwell, who allowed ony three hits in the seven innings he worked. He got into trouble in the sixth when Pete Rose walked and he hit Jerry Harper with a pitch. Pinson then connected.

Maloney, winning his sixth straight game, struck out 11 and walked only two while allowing only singles. It was his fourth shutout and 10th complete game. Cardwell now is 7-12.

Two of the Pirates hits came in the eighth when Johnny Logan got his second single and Bob Bailey stroked a two-out single. But Maloney got out of the jam by getting Bil Virdon to look at a called third strike.

Twins Trounce Kansas City, 10-3 With Pascual

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Minnesota Twins overwhelmed the Kansas City Athletics 10-3 Friday night on Camilo Pascual's strong pitching and the long ball hitting of Jim Hall and Rich Rollins.

Pascual limited the Athletics to eight hits in gaining his 12th victory. He has lost six. Rollins helped him along by clouting a two-run homer in the second. Hall, who drove in a total of five runs, hit a three-run homer in the sixth.

The Twins filled the bases against Orlando Pena in the first with none out. They scored only one run on a sacrifice fly by Hall. Pena gave up three in the second. Rollins' homer accounted for the first two and the other crossed on an error.

The Twins upped their lead to 7-1 in the sixth on Hall's three-run clout. All of the runs were unearned as the result of an error by Wayne Causey.

The final three runs crossed in the ninth. Vic Power singled in the first run, Don Mincher singled in the second and Hall singled in the third.

Radatz Beaten By Solons For Second Time This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators, the only team to beat Dick Radatz this year, handed the Boston relief star his second defeat 4-3 in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader Friday night.

Earl Wilson pitched a sixhit shutout and hit a three-run homer, first for a Boston pitcher this season, as the red Sox won the opener 50.

Dave Morehead and Jack LaMabe ran the Senators' streak of scoreless innings for the night to 15 as they pitched shutout ball for six innings of the nightcap.

Hinton's sacrifice fly scored King with the tying run. Bo Osborne singled, Don Lock walked and Don Zimmer singled to center, scoring Osborne with the fourth run of the inning.

Radatz has won 12 games.

NORTH LOUISIANA CHAMPS

Ruston Grabs Title With 7-1 Triumph

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — There is nothing like a little five run spree when it comes to winning ball games.

That's what Ruston's T. L James Contractors pulled off in the very first inning here Friday night to club the Shreveport Optimist, 7-1, to advance into the State American Legion baseball finals next week.

Randy Hay, turned in a gritty mound performance to pick up the victory for the Contractors. Hay had the Shreveporters blanked until three errors by his teammates let in a run in the eighth inning.

The Contractors wasted no time in breaking the game wide open as they dented the plate five times in their first time at bat with an outburst highlighted by Melvin Shows' two run homer.

With Shreveport's Buddy Chester on the mound. Bobby Jeffcoat opened the contest with a walk and moved to third when left fielder Joe Huffman slipped down trying to field Alden Reeves' slicing liner which went for a double.

An infield hit by Jimmy Martin put Barham on third, where he scored when second baseman Jim Pruett booted Hay's grounder.

Still not satisfied with the score, Ruston hung up another run in the third with Bailey and Martin again key figures in the scoring. Bailey stroked a single to left and again stole second, one of four steals by the Contractors. Martin's second infield hit moved Bailey to third and he scored when shortstop David Worthington overthrew first base trying to get Martin.

A walk to Reeves and Marrus, another error by Worthington and Barham's perfect squeeze bunt produced the seventh Ruston run in the sixth.

Robin Takes Orioles Past Yankees, 5-3

NEW YORK (AP)—Robin Roberts, given his unconditional release by the New York Yankees early last season, beat his old mates for the third straight time Friday night, pitching Baltimore past the Yanks 5-3.

Roberts, 36-year-old right-hander dropped by the Yanks before he made one pitch in competition, halted the defending world champions on seven hits as the Orioles won their fourth straight.

Roberts now has a 3-0 career record against the Yanks since shifting over from the National League. Yankee ace Whitey Ford was the victim, losing his second straight after winning 12 in a row. Roberts is now 10-9, Ford 16-5.

Bobby Richardson's two - run homer in the second inning, following a single by Ford, broke a string of 30 1-3 consecutive innings without an earned run off Oriole pitching.

The only other New York run was Joe Pepitone's 18th homer, a solo shot in the ninth.

John Powell hit a solo homer in the first for the Orioles and they took a 4-2 lead with a three-run burst in the fourth. A walk and singles by John Orsino and Jackie Brandt produced the first one, Brooks Robinson doubled in another and the third came home on Jim Gentile's grounder.

Cubs Pull Rally To Edge Giants

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Schaeffer's two-out single in the 10th inning scored Ron Santo and gave the Chicago Cubs a 12-11 victory over the San Francisco Giants Friday after a six-run Cub rally in the eighth had tied the score.

Santo started the winning rally off Don Larsen, the Giants' sixth pitcher, with a one-out double to right center. Ernie Banks was purposely passed and Ken Hubbs struck out before Schaeffer dropped a looping single in short right.

The Giants, who have won only once in seven games in Chicago this year, wasted an 18 hit attack when the Cubs put together their big rally in the eighth, in which Schaeffer hit a run-scoring single.

Leo Burke cracked a three-run pinch hit homer and Ellis Burton a two-run homer for the others.

Larsen, 2-5, was tagged with the loss while Glen Hobbie, the Cubs seventh pitcher, won his fifth against eight losses.

The wild-scoring game saw the Cubs grab a quick lead on Billy Williams' three-run homer in the first inning. The Giants came back with three in the second with Jose Pagan doubling home one run and Tom Haller singling home a pair.

San Francisco kayoed 15-game winner Dick Ellsworth with two runs in the third on run-scoring singles by Pagan and reliever Jim Duffalo.

Ellis Burton doubled home a Cub run in the fifth by Willie Mays made it 6-4 with his 25th home in the sixth. The Giants then scored five times in the eighth with Orlando Cepeda capping the rally with a three-run homer and putting the Giants into what appeared a comfortable 11-5 lead.

But before a Cub could be retired in the eighth inning, Chicago had tied it up on Schaeffer's single and the homers by Burke and Burton.

Mets Salvage Second Tilt From Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The New York Mets rammed in two runs in the 11th inning of the nightcap Friday night and salvaged a split in a doubleheader with the Milwaukee Braves, 3-2. The Braves bombed out an 8-0 first game decision.

Duke Snider dropped a one-out single to center in the 11th, and went to third on Jesse Gonder's double off loser Bob Shaw. Joe Hicks' single drove in one run and Duke Carmel's sacrifice fly accounted for the other.

Galen Cisco, who worked the first 10 innings and gave up only seven hits, got credit for the victory, his seventh. Ken McKenzie worked the bottom of the 11th.

Frank Thomas saved the victory with a fine, running catch off Del Crandall with one out in the 11th and doubled Hank Aaron off first, ending the game.

The Mets scored in the fourth on singles by Ron Hunt and Gonder and an infield out, while the Braves pulled even in the seventh on singles by Denis Menke, Gonder's two-base throwing error and Ty Cline's sacrifice fly.

Fewer Schools Good In SEC, Director Says

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jim Corbett, athletic director of Louisiana State University, said Friday he felt the Southeastern Conference "conceivably could be strengthened" if some schools pulled out.

In an interview with sports writer Peter Finney of the New Orleans States-Item, Corbett discounted reports that the 12-member SEC is coming apart at the seams.

It was Corbett's first comment on reports that several SEC members — Georgia Tech, Tulane, Vanderbilt and possibly Florida—may quit of the Dixie dozen.

"I'd be less than honest if I told you I'm not aware of the rumors," Corbett said, "but if the Southeastern Conference cannot survive all the things which is supposed to wreck it, then it isn't worth saving.

"Personally, I would hope no school withdraws from the conference, but I have the feeling, if some schools do pull out, the SEC conceivably could be strengthened.

"Eight schools, for example, might be a happy number. There has been criticism in the past that a' dozen members makes administration unwieldy and also makes it impossible to crown a true champion in football."

West Monroe Vs. Alexandria In Youth Tilt Today

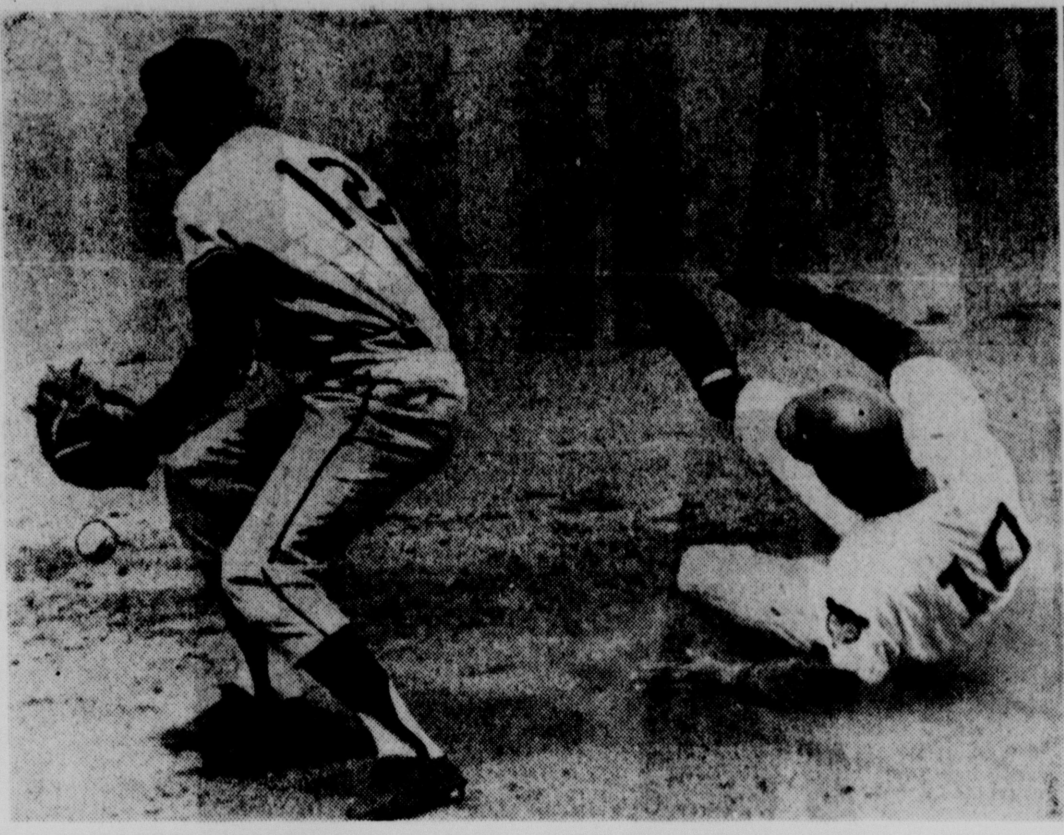
The eighth annual Louisiana State Dixie Youth baseball tournament at Metairie gets under way today with a 1 p.m. game between the West Monroe Dixie All - Stars and the Alexandria Stars.

The West Monroe Stars captured their place in the tourney by taking the Fourth District crown while the Alexandria Youths were pacing the Eighth District.

Other first day games in the double elimination meet match Gonzales and Airline Park (Jefferson Parish) at 3 p.m., Houma and South Franklin, 6 p.m., and DeRidder vs. the hosting Metairie team at 8 p.m.

If the Monroe Stars get by Alexandria today, they will meet the winner of the Gonzales, Airline Park tilt, in a 5 o'clock game on Monday, and if they should lose they will be matched with loser of that game in a 6 o'clock game Tuesday.

The Louisiana State champions will be crowned by Saturday, August 10.



RON SANTO (10) of the Chicago Cubs is forced at second base in the first inning of the game with San Francisco, but second baseman Jim Davenport (12) drops the ball as he spins to try for a double play on Steve Boros who grounded to the pitcher. (AP Wirephoto)

Travel Weary Yanks End Tour In Britain

LONDON (AP)—The U.S. track team, a little travel weary, goes against a lightly regarded British squad Saturday and Monday in the wind-up of its overseas tour.

The Americans came here straight from Hannover, Germany, where they demolished a good, young West German team 141-82 Wednesday and Thursday, about as lop-sided a score as possible in these international contests.

There will be 20 men's events and 11 for women in the meet here, spread over the two days, with scores segregated by sexes. As is customary in these internationals, each nation has two entries in each event, with scoring on a 5-3-2-1 basis.

Most of the American squad that squeaked through in Moscow and swamped the Polish team in Warsaw will be on hand, although there are some important names among the missing.

One is Harold Connolly in the hammer throw, and the British have a good chance in that event Saturday.

The 6-mile run is about the only other event on the opening day card that seems safely in the British Column. The American boys should take all the rest, despite their travel legs.

U.S. coach Payton Jordan said the Yankees have "nothing beyond the usual bumps and bruises." He has spread the word around, especially among the sprinters, and most are ready.

The powerful American team has flirted with world records along the way, but only John Pennel in the pole vault has managed to set one. He went 16 feet, 8¾ inches in Warsaw.

Bob Hayes, the Jacksonville, Fla., sprinter whose relay leg in the 400-meter relay in Germany was probably the greatest 100 meters ever run, will confine his efforts here to the 100 yards and the relay. He doubled in the 200 meters at Hannover.

NORTHEAST FOOTBALL

Myrick's Place In Good Shape

When the Northeast Louisiana State College Indians take to the practice field September 1 for preseason workouts a practically new group of field generals will hold forth.

Missing will be last year's starter Ronnie Myrick who will be operating from a HB position this season and alternate Pete Vincent who has finished his elegibility.

The lone returnee of last season's lettermen at the vital "man under" spot on the Redskins T-formation will be senior Mike Cooper, 5-9, 180 pound one-year letterman from Houston, Tex.

Playing his first football at the local college last fall after two years in the Texas Junior College circuit, Cooper runs with good power and is a cool and accurate passer besides having the necessary "take charge" attitude on the field Knowing that a great deal is expected of him in the coming season, Mike has shed excess poundage since spring training and appears ready and able to make a top hand.

Junior Bookie Shillcutt, a February transfer from Kilgore Tex., Junior College, played his high school football at Byrd of Shreveport.

Stamping himself as a fine prospect for Gulf States Conference play with an excellent spring training session, Bookie is a 5-9, 180 pound scooter who fakes well and is a good place kicker.

Another fellow having fine spring training was little 5-6, 160 pound Dalton Faircloth, a squadman last season that did not use any of his first year eligibility and will be playing as a freshman this fall.

They don't come any cooler under fire than "Dee," who has an excellent knowledge of the game. His father is a former Texas A&M backfield coach and presently head coach at Many, La. High School.

Two outstanding New Orleans high school prospects will report this fall. They are Ray Hanley, 5-11, 175 pounder from Berhman High, and Calvin Lannes, 5-11, 170 pounder who prepped at De LaSalle.

SUMMARY: The spring training play of Cooper, Shillcutt and Faircloth convinced Coach Jack Rowan that he could make the shift of Myrick to halfback. He has confidence in their ability to do the job of guiding Northeast as the college tackles its tough 1963 schedule.

Dodgers Beaten By Colts, Lose Game To Cards

HOUSTON (AP)—The Houston Colts, operating behind the steady pitching of Dick Farrell, lopped a full game off Los Angeles' National League lead Friday night, beating the Dodgers 4-1.

The loss, the sixth in eight games for the slumping Dodgers, combined with St. Louis' 3-2 victory over Philadelphia to cut the Dodger lead over the Cards to 3½ games.

Farrell, a 6-foot-4 right-hander, struck out three, walked two and spaced only six hits in running his record to 9-8. Starter Don Drysdale, who gave up a two-run homer to Jim Wynn in the second, was tagged with the loss for the Dodgers, his 12th against 13 victories.

The Wynn homer, following a single by Ken Warwick, put the Colts out to a lead that stood up the rest of the way. A walk to Farrell, Al Spangler's double, a walk to Pete Runnels and a double play added another in the fifth and singles by Farrell, Spangler and Warwick got another in the seventh.

The Dodgers' lone run came in the fourth on a single by Junior Gilliam, a walk to Wally Moon and Ron Fairly's run-producing single.

Jim Clark of Scotland, favored to win Sunday's 15-lap race, was third at 9:02 and Richie Ginther of Riverside, Calif., fourth at 9:02.8.

Jessen Battles Bad Weather To Keep Lead

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Blonde Ruth Jessen battled a rain soaked course and occasional wind gusts for a one-over-par 73 and a two round total of 141 Friday in retaining a two stroke lead at the halfway mark of the $12,500 Milwaukee Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The former Pacific Northwest amateur champion from Seattle had a one-under-par 36 going out, but was two over coming back on the 6,508 yard North Shore Country Club course, well watered by thundershowers shortly before the field teed off.

Waiting in the wings after two fine rounds were two of Miss Jessen's companions on the Ladies Professional tour. Kathy Whitworth added a 75 to her opening day 70, while Marilynn Smith fired the only sub par score in the second round for a 72-71—143.

Besides Miss Smith, only two others in the field of 43 pros and 18 amateurs managed to equal regulation figures. National Open Champion Mary Mills of Gulfport, Miss., and Clifford Ann Creed of Alexandria, La., each fashioned 72s and were deadlocked at 148, seven strokes off the pace.

Veteran Shirley Sport took a 75 after an initial round 70 and was fourth in the battle for top money of $2,000. She was followed by Louis Suggs with a pair of 73s.

Tied at 147 were Sandr Haynie and Jackie Pung. Grouped at 148 with Mrs. Mills and Miss Creed were Judy Kimball and Kathy Cornelius.

AT NATIONAL AAU

NCAA Boss Fires Volley

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association fired another volley at the National AAU Friday as he lauded America's school-college athletic system as "the finest in the world."

Addressing the annual meeting of the Football Writers of America, Robert F. Ray, also University of Iowa faculty representative in the Big Ten, asserted:

"Apparently only the AAU is unwilling to recognize the importance of the school-college system." The AAU with "antiquated machinery," Ray said, has built a wall around "its creaking monopoly."

The NCAA-back defederations in track and field, basketball and gymnastics, long have feuded with the AAU over control of those sports at the national and international level.

After predicting that mushrooming college enrolments will demand academically - superior athletes, Ray climaxed his talk with sharp criticism of the AAU, but urged the AU to join the fdeeration movement.

"The federation movement is going to succeed," said Ray. "It is succeeding. The NCAA is part of it. The NCAA can be outvoted by its fellow members in it. The AAU ought to join in the effort. The way is open and the future is bright for a united effort in behalf of amateur athletics at home and abroad."

Ray stressed that the United States' school-college system is "unique to the world and has resulted in the finest system ever developed," contributing heavily to Olympic talent.

"No other system, including the antiquated machinery of the Amateur Athletic Union can make such a claim," Ray said. "And no amount of abusive name-calling, invective or other castigation by AAU officials can alter the clear record of achievement of the school-college system.

"Such tactics sell the system short, and I need not remind the Football Writers' Association that selling the system short also sells short the nation that has created the school-college system.

"The heart of the conflict (between the AAU and NCAA) centers on a simple American premise that taxation without representation is not fair play. Just representation in the conduct of amateur athletics is our simple goal."

Luncheon, Shower Fete Bride-Elect Linda Cooper

Miss Linda Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton T. Cooper of Monroe has been named honoree for two recent prenuptial parties, prior to her August 15 marriage to William Ragan at the Temple Baptist Church in Monroe.

LUNCHEON

Miss Sharon Peters was the hostess for Thursday's luncheon in the Mahogany Room of the Rendezvous, honoring Miss Cooper.

A pink and white theme was carried out in the table decorations, with silver candle holders flanking a low silver container, containing pink zinnias and barbary with a white magnolia as focal point. Pink and white kissing angel figurines were placed in front of the bride-elect's place at the table.

Miss Cooper wore a lavender printed taffeta sheath with a matching chiffon overskirt and a gift corsage of two baby white orchids. Her hostess, dressed in a pale yellow whipped cream shift, also presented the honoree with a silver mint box.

Luncheon guests were Miss Cooper, her mother, Mrs. Alton Cooper, her aunt, Mrs. J. W. Cooper, her sister, Miss Gloria Cooper, her cousin, Miss Judy Cooper and Miss Connie Jo Courson, Miss Tana Rhodes, Miss Jennie Claire Carroll, Miss Ninkie Boyd and Miss Peters.

SHOWER

Miss Tana Rhodes was hostesses for the lingerie shower at her home on Inglewood Drive Tuesday evening, July 30 at 7:00 p.m.

An arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums in a silver bowl was seen in the living room. The refreshment table, covered with an ecru lace cloth over green taffeta, held the silver coffee service. Miss Rhodes was assisted by Miss Jennie Claire Carroll in serving and registering the guests. Miss Sharon Peters helped with the gifts.

Shower guests were the honoree, her mother Mrs. Alton Cooper, Mrs. A. S. Owens, Mrs. Ross LaDart, Miss Linda Mangham, Miss Cheryl Bush, Miss Nancy Miller, Miss Lynne Hamm, Miss Sylvia Hayden, Miss Ninkie Boyd, Miss Peggy Cromwell, Miss Linda Skipper, Miss Janis Pardue, Miss Jo Henson, Miss Sandra Hootsel, Miss Joyce Mullins, Miss Gloria Cooper, Miss Sharon Jones, Miss Ann Avery, Miss Judy Cooper, Miss Sharon Peters and Miss Jennie Claire Carroll.

DON'T TAKE the shirt off his back. You won't need to, if you wear this slim shirtdress by Pendleton. In houndstooth checks, white with red, black or brown, or in heather soft colors, it's designed with you in mind. From East to West the shirtdress is fashioned with a youthful flair. Tailored with precision and made from 100 per cent virgin wood, this is just one in the long line of Pendleton's country clothes with that casual look the world has learned to love.

DEAR ABBY

Tell Him Nicely And Hope That It Works!

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this is too trivial to answer. I have recently begun to go out with a distinguished bachelor who is in his fifties. I am a widow in my forties. He has escorted me to the ballet, concerts and symphony. He is a patron of the arts and I love music. But, Abby, when he sings along with the performing artists, or orchestra, I want to run and hide. I haven't the courage to tell him how much this annoys me, and the "looks" he gets from those seated near us don't seem to penetrate. Is there a polite way to tell him how I feel I don't want to lose him.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: He appears to be a man who wants everyone to know that HE knows the score. Tell him in a friendly way that his "singing along" bothers you and those around you. If he has done this unconsciously, he'll appreciate knowing. If he is aware that he's disturbing others and doesn't care, he's selfish and inconsiderate, in which case, if you lose him, you haven't lost much.

DEAR ABBY: My husband (and I spew the words out of my mouth) was found dead with a woman, in a suicide pact. I made all the necessary funeral arrangements, but did not attend the rites, nor did I send flowers. It may seem hard to believe, Miss Abby, but in the 16 years we were together, right up to the day of his death, I had no knowledge that there was another woman. His family, and mine, condemn me for the stand I have taken, but I cannot be a hypocrite. I have debated writing this letter to you for over a month but, somehow, I feel that your wise counsel will help me. Sincerely,

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR MRS. ——: Under the circumstances you should not be condemned for refusing to go through the motions of a grieving widow. You have suffered enough humiliation. Don't let his family, or yours, punish you further.

DEAR ABBY: We have a seven-year-old grandson who is smart as a whip. The big problem is that he uses some of the dirtiest words in the English language. At first we thought he didn't know what he was saying, but he uses the words in all the right places. His parents said he must have picked it up at school. His parents tell us to pretend not to hear him. How can you pretend, Abby? My husband almost choked once, and I came close to fainting. What should we do?

HIS GRANDPARENTS

DEAR GRANDPARENTS: Seven-year-olds who are this smart in the head should "smart" some place else more often.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "INTERESTED PARTY": Read Proverbs 26:17: "He who seizes a passing dog by the ears is he who meddles in a quarrel not his own."

Mrs. Sprague Entertains With Coffee

Mrs. Russell Sprague entertained with a coffee hour at the Book Club building in Tallulah Tuesday morning, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Claude Kirkpatrick of Baton Rouge. Mrs. Sprague and the Kirkpatricks have been friends since their college days at Louisiana College.

The Kirkpatricks received with their hostess in the library of the building.

Dahlias, zinnias and colorful caladium leaves were combined in arrangements for the coffee tables and vantage points throughout the club house.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Preheat Hair Dryer To Soften Plastic Hood

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Gals:

For those of you who have bought these new hair dryers — portable type — with the big plastic hoods, and find that after you remove them from the bag and try to place them over your head they are extremely stiff . . . I have the answer!

Before trying to put the plastic hood over your head, turn on your hair dryer and let the heat warm the plastic. All at once it will become soft and can be placed over your hair rollers and clips very easily.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For your reader who wants to know how to remove coffee and tea stains from a tablecloth:

I take a few drops of household bleach in a small container and add about a teaspoon of tap water and dab directly on the white cloth before tossing it into my washing machine.

E. S.

Be sure to spot test your material first to see if it is color-fast . . . if it is colored.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When I am in a hurry to feed the older children, because my husband is late:

I cut up steak in bite-size pieces and fry it in my deep fat fryer, right along with our French fried potatoes!

The children's dinner is just as hot and good as husband's and neither group has to settle for warmed over food or sandwiches as each batch or "order" may be cooked together.

Sini Waite

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For those who put coffee or tea in a thermos bottle and find that it eventually ends up with dark brown sediment and stains which have collected:

I fill mine with hot water and add two teaspoons of liquid detergent. I leave this overnight. In the morning I pour it out. This removes all of the dark brown sediment which has collected. Give a good rinse and lo . . . a lovely brand new looking thermos.

If you use the old-fashioned muffin pan to bake cupcakes . . . try putting a little piece of waved paper in the bottom of each greased tin. This will make them come out much easier and all in one piece too. I fold my wax paper over and over and cut a dozen or two of these liners at one time.

Mrs. H.

Dear Heloise:

Whenever I empty a can of vegetable or fruit, etc., I put the can on my drain board and use it for putting in soft, mushy food from the plates, seeds from melons, and anything that would mess up my garbage can.

When the can is full, I close the lid (which has not been completely cut off) and put it in a paper grocery bag which I keep in a small garbage can under my sink.

Cereal boxes are also good to dispose of this kind of garbage as they are lined with waxed paper and do not leak.

Christine Schultz

Dear Heloise:

I remove stitch and needle marks from my materials by dipping a pressing cloth in club soda and wring it out well. This also removes stubborn creases from woolens when letting down hems.

Mrs. P. P. W.

Ladies, I suggest that you test it on a piece of hidden fabric first. But . . . it does work. Just be sure it's safe for your particular material. So many different kinds on the market nowadays.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I keep my baby's bed dry all night and his outside clothing, too, by putting two pair of plastic pants on him over his "night" diapers. It is worth the extra wash you have because you can save on clothes and bedding.

Mrs. W. D. Musso

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This is the time of year when we begin to think a bit about getting ready for our return to the more formal and less relaxed life of fall and winter. In other words, we begin to wonder how our figure is going to look in our fall clothes! Even a few pounds gained during vacation time will make a big difference.

Because of house guests, family gatherings and resort food, we are very likely to gain weight during this season. Therefore, unless we are wary, the end of summer will slip up on us and we will not be prepared for fall. It's a good idea to begin tapering off on our luxurious vacation living sometime before too long. Therefore I am bringing you a few suggestions.

Take smaller portions and no seconds and no between meal snacks. Successful weight reduction can be achieved with just this one rule. If you wish to lose some weight rapidly or have many pounds to lose, you will have to be a bit more drastic. With this method you can enjoy a diet of great variety and at the same time form a lifetime habit of eating moderately instead of overeating.

Begin to taper off by having dessert only two or three times a week instead of every day, and sometimes twice a day.

Add a two mile walk or a game of tennis or golf or a swim to your daily routine for the rest of the summer if you haven't already done so.

Substitute skim milk or powdered fat free milk for whole milk.

If you are accustomed to eating lots of bread and rolls cut way down just as you do on deserts.

That stunning summer tan will not look so well with the clothes of fall and winter. Better begin tapering off on the suntanning too.

When the time comes I am sure you will be glad that you slipped up on reconditioning instead of allowing fall to sneak up on you.

Perhaps you would like to have my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan which gives you complete directions for redoing yourself. There is just enough time left to lose from 15 to 20 pounds before the weather becomes nippy. If you would like to have this kit send 25 cents and your printed name and address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

WEAKENED SOVEREIGNTY

Satellites, Allies Suspicious Of Ban

EDITOR'S NOTE — West Germany fears that signing the partial nuclear test ban treaty might lead to giving some form of recognition to the East German Communists. How do anti-Communist governments of divided countries in Asia feel about this? Here is the answer gathered by Associated Press correspondents on the scene.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Governments in both Communist and non-Communist sections of divided Asian countries are wary of the nuclear test ban treaty to be signed Monday in Moscow.

Just as West Germany fears the treaty could lead to at least quasi-recognition of Communist East Germany, the militantly anti-Communist governments of South Korea, South Viet Nam and Nationalist China fear a Red trap.

The Red regimes of North Korea and North Viet Nam, on the other hand, have so far held aloof—obviously because of the violent opposition to the treaty by their giant neighbor, Communist China. Both governments have supported Red China in its ideological quarrel with the Soviet Union.

Only neutral but Red-threatened Laos said it would adhere to the treaty that would ban nuclear tests everywhere except underground. An official announcement Friday in Vientiane said agreement by the coalition government was unanimous.

This meant that pro-Communist Deputy Premier Prince Souphonouvong—apparently defying his Red Chinese supporters—voted for the treaty. Neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma and Deputy Premier Phoumi Nosavan of the right wing represent the other factions in the coalition.

The Laotian announcement took account of West German fears and said "signing of the Moscow treaty has nothing to do with recognition of any country." Laos has diplomatic relations with West Germany, but not with East Germany.

The Chinese Nationalists on Formosa would probably have expressed strong views about the treaty except for fear of offending the United States—their chief backer and one of the three powers which negotiated the pact. The other two are Britain and the Soviet Union.

The general tenor in Taipei has been: The limited nuclear test ban agreement would be a good thing if Premier Khrushchev could be trusted not to violate its terms as soon as he might think it expedient to do so, and closer relations between the United States and the Soviet Union might lead to future accords which could be prejudicial to Chinese Nationalist plans for a comeback against the Chinese Communists.

The day after the treaty was initialed, an independent Taipei paper expressed fear that it "might lead to a revival of the spirit of Yalta."

That was a reference to the World War II conference at Yalta, one outcome of which was pressure on China to sign a treaty giving the Soviet Union various rights and privileges on the Chinese mainland.

South Korea wants to watch carefully the possibilities, however remote, of Communist China and Red North Korea joining the treaty before making its decision on whether to sign it.

The Seoul government, which traditionally shuns association with Communist North Korea through membership in international organizations and treaties, is in no hurry to make a decision.

"We'd like to watch further developments, particularly those in the Communist camp," a Foreign Ministry official said.

The officials said the Koreans shared the fear expressed by West Germany that the Communist nations would try to use the treaty signing as a tactic for bringing recognition to various Communist regimes.

The officials admitted that in view of the highly critical reaction of the Chinese Communists to the treaty it was considered highly unlikely that Communist North Korea would join the treaty.

South Vietnamese papers warned that the treaty has not ended the cold war. Editorials advised readers not to be too optimistic.

One government official said Friday: "We don't really know much about the test ban. We are too concerned with out own problems right now to take an active interest in the Moscow talks."

State Is Paying Final Respects To Gen. Hurley

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—Hundreds of New Mexicans paid their last respects Friday to an adopted son, Maj. Gen. Patrick Jay Hurley—diplomat, statesman, soldier.

A memorial Mass was held for Hurley, former secretary of war, ambassador to China and New Mexico political figure in St. Francis Cathedral. The Rev. Pax Schicker, pastor of the cathedral, celebrated the Mass.

Hurley was buried in the Santa Fe National Cemetery.

The general's plot in the cemetery, to be marked by a simple white headstone, was in a new circular area near the gate and in front of the administration building. His was the first interment in the new area.

ATTRACTIVE URTE Kaye prepares to leap from a rented plane, which she does weekly in her sky diving. In the 30 seconds or so, while free — falling, the green-eyed secretary opens her parachute, does back loops, figure eights and barrel loops. A native of Hamburg, Germany, Miss Kaye was trained by the American 24th Infantry Division Sports Parachute Club and has made 139 jumps. (AP Wirephoto)

GERMAN-BORN PEACH

Blonde Girl Ably Shows Free Fall

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Almost every weekend, weather permitting, a pert blonde German-born secretary hires a plane, soars two miles aloft and then leaps out.

In the next 30 seconds or so before Urte Kaye opens her parachute, she does back loops, figure 8s and barrel loops.

What does Miss Kaye think about during that free fall before her chute opens?

"You're too busy concentrating to think about anything except the next move," she said. "Have no illusions. It's hard work."

Now 29, Miss Kaye decided to try parachuting when she returned to Germany after graduating from R. E. Lee High School in Thomaston, Ga., as an exchange student.

She contacted the American 24th Division Sports Parachute Club at Gablingen. The members agreed to train her.

"They made me jump from gasoline cans onto concrete floors. It was vigorous training and I had nine weeks of it before I made my first jump," she said.

"You laugh hysterically. It's just the funniest thing. You're happy and proud of yourself because you've made contact in a free fall," she says of the hand holding.

Has she ever been afraid? "Sure. Anyone who says he's never been afraid before a jump is joking. Every time I go up, I have butterflies."

Miss Kaye returned to the United States in 1960 and has been a member of the Georgia Sky Divers ever since.

Rites Held In Korea For 2 Soldiers

By CHARLES R. SMITH

ALONG THE TRUCE LINE, Korea (UPI)—A Roman Catholic chaplain conducted a memorial Mass Friday for two U.S. Army soldiers killed when they were shot in the back by Communist troops who infiltrated the demilitarized zone.

"Only last Sunday two of your buddies were sitting right where you are sitting now," Chaplain John C. Borley of Dubuque, Iowa, told troops of the 1st Reconnaissance Squadron who assembled in a quonset hut temporarily converted into a chapel.

"I remember it well," Capt. Borley said. I recall David (Pvt. David A. Seiler of Theresa, Wis.) was sitting over there on the right. I can still see his face. He was a fine boy. Charles (Pfc. Charles T. Dessart of Drexel Hill, Pa.) also was a fine boy."

The service was held only a few miles from the spot where Dessart and Seiler were shot from behind by machine gun fire from Communist North Korean infiltrators in an ambush attack.

In an interview before the service started, Father Borley said he gave Communion to the two men on Monday, a few hours before they were killed.

When the bodies were discovered, Father Borley administered the Extreme Unction.

"You should have seen those boys out there in the rain, the blood and the mud," he said. "I never saw that before. It was terrible to see such fine young men die that way, shot in the back."

Another U.S. Army soldier and a South Korean policemen have been killed this week in other infiltration skirmishes. Two North Korean infiltrators were killedd by troops of the United Nations command and two others committed suicide when they were captured.

Scattered gunfire was reported along the 151-mile truce line Friday, but the immediate danger of further incidents appeared to have abated. Troops along the entire line, however, remained on an alert status.

Panama Envoy Resigns Over Alliance Clash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph S. Farland, U.S. ambassador to Panama, has resigned amid indications of a disagreement with officials of the Alliance-for-Progress agency.

In announcing the resignation Friday, the White House said nothing about any differences. Spokesmen for the Agency for International Development, of which the alliance is a part, insisted they knew of no dispute with Farland.

In his letter of resignation he mentioned "specific reasons discussed with members of your staff on May 7, 1963, and subsequently" but went into no detail. In a July 25 letter to a State Department official he said, "It is generally known that I stepped on a few toes" in his report to President Kennedy on the alliance.

He served in the Eisenhower administration as ambassador to the Dominican Republic in 1957-60, went to Panama in 1960 and was retained there when Kennedy took office in 1961.

The alliance program in Panama is backed by $14.7 million in U.S. grants and $6 million in loans. It includes projects in housing, education, road-building and rural development.

Sit-In Attempt Unsuccessful At Clarksdale Store

CLARKSDALE, Miss. (AP) — Five Negroes sought unsuccessfully Friday to desegregate a drug store lunch counter in downtown Clarksdale. Police arrested them almost as soon as they took seats.

The three women and two men took seats and waiting officers asked them to leave. When they did not, they were arrested and taken to jail.

The arrests brought to 86 the number taken in recent demonstrations against racial policies here. Earlier arrests were for picketing downtown stores without a parade permit.

All but four of the Negroes arrested thus far remained in jail. Police released four under age 14 to their parents.

Malayasia Meet

MANILA — U.N. Secretary General Thant advised the Malaysia summit conference the U.N. secretariat has accepted the request to determine whether the people of Sarawak and North Bornea wish to be included in the Malaysia Federation. # Korean Turncoat Tells Of Disillusion

By ARTHUR L. DOMMEN

HONG KONG (UPI) — Korean War turncoat Lowell D. Skinner said Friday he was disillusioned with communism after nine years in Red China despite favored treatment for the Americans who rejected repatriation home after the armistice.

The former Army corporal from Akron, Ohio, told a news conference:

Skinner was one of the 21 Americans captured by the Reds who chose communism after the Korean armistice 10 years ago. He disclosed that only seven of his fellow - turncoats remained in China. He said two others left for East European countries and two more were planning to leave shortly.

The 32-year-old Skinner came out from behind the Bamboo Curtain Thursday on the way back to rejoin his parents in Akron.

He said there was a noticeable increase in the violence of anti-Russian statements by the Chinese after Soviet technicians were withdrawn. He called 1960 the worst year of hardship for the Chinese people, as a result of the loss of Soviet help, "droughts and floods, bad management and lack of experience."

"If we had to live like ordinary people, no one would have survived," he said. The Americans were given better rations than the Chinese during the critical food shortages, he said.

Skinner disclosed he lost 15 pounds. He said he weighed 133 pounds when he left for Korea and now weighs 118—a weight he has retained since 1959. But he appeared to be in good health and talked to reporters with complete naturalness and self-confidence.

He admitted there were few individual freedoms in China.

"If you want to change your work, you can't," he said. "If you want to study, you can't. If you want to travel, you can't."

Skinner said that when the "great leap forward" program began in 1958 "the people thought they were going to gain something. But then they got tireder and tireder."

"Things got all mixed up," especially in the field of agricultural production, he said. The Chinese "didn't produce too much," he added.

Skinner reported there was widespread dissatisfaction in 1959-60 with the Peking regime, and that people "were trying to get out of the country" then and later. He said he heard about the exodus of more than 60,000 refugees into Hong Kong in May, 1962 from travelers and people in Tsinan who received letters from those who escaped.

Skinner also said there was widespread knowledge in China of tensions along the border with India in 1962. "Everyone knew it was coming," he said of the Sino-Indian border war last year. "Everyone I talked to felt India was to blame."

Skinner said he was the first of the American turncoats to marry. Marriage of foreigners with Chinese girls now is discouraged by the government, he said.

Skinner married GI Hsiao-fei, four years his senior, on March 1, 1956. They have no children.

He said his wife was stricken with what was diagnosed as tuberculosis of the brain within a few weeks of their marriage. "That was cured, of course," he added, "but it left her with partial paralysis of both legs."

He disclosed that his wife, who was a teacher and a Seventh-Day Adventist when he met her, was being treated by Chinese doctors who had avised strongly against trying to bring her out of China now.

Skinner said the Communists told him she would be alowed to leave China if the American government approved her entry into the United States.

Skinner maintained contact with other members of the original group of 21 American turncoats. He said "we could write letters to each other and occasionally we could see each other."

All the Americans now in China are married, he said.

He said John Dunne of Baltimore, Md. married a Czech girl and left for Czechoslovakia. Harold H. Webb of Fort Pierce, Fla., married a Polish girl and went to Poland, he said.

He gave the following information, on the other Americans in China:

—Albert C. Belhomme, who was a U.S. sergeant, but carried a Belgian passport, currently is working as an electrician in Tsinan. His wife has a Belgian passport and they are due to leave China within a few weeks.

—Scott L. Rush, formerly of Marietta, Ohio, is working in Wuhan as a lathe operator. He married a Chinese and has one child. Rush also is expected to leave China shortly.

—Clarence C. Adams of Memphis, Tenn., is working in Peking at the Foreign Language Press, Peking's principal publishing house for propaganda material for overseas distribution. He has a Chinese wife and two children.

—Howard G. Adams of Corsicana, Tex., is a chemist at a paper mill in Tsinan. He has a Chinese wife and one adopted child.

—James G. Meneris of Hawthorne, Calif., is a lathe operator in Tsinan. He has a Chinese wife but no children.

—William C. White of Plumersville, Ark. is working at the Foreign Language Press in Peking. He has a Chinese wife and one child.

—Morris R. Willis of Fort Ann, N.Y., is working at the Chinese language press in Peking. He also has a Chinese wife but no children.

"How do they feel about life in China?" Skinner was asked.

"I couldn't speak for them," he replied.

ON GOO DBEHAVIOR

LONDON (UPI) — The Independent Television Authority announced Wednesday that children appearing in commercials henceforth must be put on their best behavior.

In the future, no child is to appear unattended in street commercials, step carelessly off a curb, cross a street without care, lean out of a window dangerously, climb up to high shelves or be within reach of medicines, disinfectant or matches.

COTTON

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures closed irregular today at 5 cents a bale lower to 60 cents higher than the previous close. Activity in the market was still light, but transactions today were rated by brokers as the heaviest in a number of weeks. Buying came through commission houses and trade interests. Demand was supplied by profit taking and light hedging.

Dealers evened up accounts for over the week-end and many preferred to be in a liquid position, pending Washington developments on new crop legislation and the release next week of the government's first production report on the 1963 crop. A slight improvement in domestic textile business also helped to bring buying in to the cotton futures market, dealers said.

Futures closed 5 cents a bale lower to 60 cents higher than the previous close.

Late Burst Hikes Stocks To Big Gains

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks finished with a sizable gain Friday when a late burst of buying brought a number of issues up to the day's best levels.

Prices were firm through most of the session with only nominal gains appearing in some sections but buying interest increased in the final hour or so and prices inched higher.

Dow-Jones industrial average rose 2.96 to 697.83 and Standard & Poor's 500 stock index added 0.23 to 69.30. Trading lagged considerably at 2,940,000 shares compared with the 3,410,000 shares which changed hands Thursday.

Of the 1,261 issues traded, 570 advanced, 25 to new 1963 highs and 405 declined, 35 to new lows.

Brokers said the improving corporate and economic picture which included gains in employment, retail and department store sales plus the return of tax legislation to the forefront of the Washington scene helped boost investor sentiment during the pre-weekend dealings which are normally characterized by a degree of profit-taking.

Parke Davis topped the market in activity, slipping ½ to 25¾ on a turnover of 73,900 shares. Hilton Hotels was second most active, sinking 3¼ to a new low on 35,100 shares. Just after the close Thursday Hilton directors announced they had omitted the quarterly dividend.

Steels clung close to Thursday's closing levels. Republic, Youngstown and Bethlehem were unchanged and U.S. Steel tacked on only ¼. Chrysler eased ¼ while Ford and General Motors tacked on fractions.

On the American Exchange prices were higher on a turnover of 1,020,000 shares compared with 940,000 shares Thursday.

BUSINESS HIGHLIGHTS

By United Press International

DIVIDEND TAXES

President G. Keith Funston of the New York Stock Exchange Friday hailed the House Ways & Means Committee's reported decision to double the present $50 tax exemption on dividends but condemned abolishment of the 4 per cent credit on dividend income.

Fuston said raising the dividend tax exemption would help many stockholders but abolishing the credit would be "reverting almost completely to double taxation of dividends."

The Commerce Department said manufacturing and trade inventories rose by $500 million in June to a total of $100 billion. It was the largest one-month rise this year. The report said the June increase brought the total accumulation for the second quarter of 1963 to $1.1 billion.

CAR TRUCK OUTPUT

Combined car and truck production during July reached an all-time record for the month, according to Ward's Automotive reports. The statistical agency fixed passenger car unit output at 655,194. The total for passenger cars was second only to the July 1955 figure of 659,736 and was 11.2 per cent above the 589,002 cars made in the same month last year.

Two Franklin Men Charged In Theft Cases

WINNSBORO (Special) — Two Franklin Parish men and a juvenile are in jail here charged with theft after admitting stealing a calf and a tractor battrey.

John F. McDaniel Sr., 65, and his son, Tony, 17, are being held under $2,500 bond each. The 16-year-old juvenile is being held for juvenile authorities.

What started as a routine investigation of a missing tractor battery resulted in the arrest of the three and recovery of the battery and the 300-pound dressed calf, including the head and hide.

Franklin Parish Deputies Jimmy Guice and Claude Frey were investigating a call from Morgan Ezell of Gilbert reporting a stolen battery.

Deputy Guice was searching the elder McDaniel's home for the battery when he noticed a blood smear on the refrigerator door. Inside the unit was a quarter of a dressed beef, which the McDaniels admitted stealing in Caldwell Parish.

I. A. Hillestead of Columbia, who lived near the location of the theft was notified, and with the help of the deputies rounded up his cattle and found one missing. He identified the head and hide in Winnsboro as being from his missing calf.

The battery was later found in high grass on a ditch bank on the McDaniel place. All the beef was recovered with the exception of one part that had been cooked for dinner.

The elder McDaniel was already under a $500 bond on a charge of theft of gasoline.

Spencer Tracy Is Given Release

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Spencer Tracy, hospitalized since July 18 with a respiratory ailment, was released from St. Vincent's Hospital Friday and was "feeling fine."

The Oscar-winning actor at first was believed to have suffered a heart attack, but doctors said later that diagnosis indicated the ailment was a congested lung condition.

He was taken to the hospital after being stricken at the home of actress Katharine Hepburn, a long-time friend and frequent co-star, as they were getting ready to go to a picnic.

Choir Slated For Concert

The Northeast Louisiana State College Summer Choir will be presented in its annual concert in Biedenharn Recital Hall on the campus here Monday, Aug. 5, at 8:15 p.m. The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

Puccini's "Messa di Gloria" will be the featured work.

"This is an extremely tuneful work and does not have the austerity of most sacred work," said Eloy Fominaya, conductor. Written when Puccini was only 18 years old, it contains much of the inspiration the composer used later in his famous operas, "Tosca," "La Boehme" and "Madame Butterfly."

This is believed to be the first time "Messa di Gloria" has been performed in Monroe, Fominaya said.

Soloists will be Sidney Martin, tenor; Frank Swindle, baritone, and David Smith, bass baritone. Graduate student Elaine Allen, music teacher in El Dorado, Ark., public schools, will be the organ accompanist.

Also performing during the concert will be the NLSC Brass Ensemble, under the direction of senior major Paul Mann of Natchez, Miss.

Aldridge said Beneficial started more than 48 years ago with one office in Elizabeth, N. J.

AT CHICAGO SCHOOL

Mix Group Stages 'Laydown' In Mud

By United Press International

Integrationists staged a "laydown" in mud and driving rain today at a Chicago mobile school site and police mobilized for a feared renewal of a racial outbreak that has swept another South Side Chicago neighborhood for four consecutive nights.

Police picked up the "lay down" demonstrators and carted them off wholesale to Englewood police station, already crowded with Negroes and whites arrested Thursday night and early today in a tense neighborhood torn by the move-in of three Negro families.

By early afternoon, 41 "laydown" demonstrators—most of them Negroes—had been arrested.

The protesters were trying to prevent trucks from moving into a school emplacement where 18 mobile classrooms — similar to house trailers—were being placed and readied for September classes.

The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), which has led a series of sit-in demonstrations against alleged "de facto segregation," has protested that mobile classrooms are being used to further segregation of Negro pupils under Chicago's traditional district school system.

The "lay-down" occurred about three miles from the West Englewood area where crowds shouted curses and heaved rocks and bottles for hours Thursday night and early Friday.

At least 24 persons were injured—most of them by flying glass—and 41 persons were arrested in the area where Negro families moved into an old Irish neighborhood. The arrests brought to 133 the number of persons picked up in the predominantly white neighborhood and an adjoining Negro area.

City's Summer Program Ends

Monroe Recreation Department's summer playground program ended Friday with special activities held beginning at 10 a.m. at Barkdull Faulk School playground.

Contests included horseshoe, box hockey, ping pong, cracker-eating, dashes and softball. The street shower was held at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Peggy Garnett was director of the handicrafts activities.

Jackie Neal, in charge of the program, expressed appreciation to directors and workers who participated.

RA Congress Funds Sought By Local Youths

Nine members of the Royal Ambassadors at the First Baptist Church of Monroe will begin today to attempt to earn enough money for a trip to the national RA Congress to be held August 13-17 in Washington, D.C.

A car wash is the initial project for the nine. They will work at Rogers Amoco Station, 1615 Jackson Street, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., charging $1.25 per car. All proceeds will go toward the trip.

Formal Opening Set At Facility

August 25 is set as formal opening date or the new Ouachita Parish Health Unit, which is located at 2913 DeSiard Street.

Dedication ceremonies and an open house from 2-5 p.m. will be held for the $468,000 structure.

The full program for the day is not yet complete, according to Dr. W. Carroll Summer, director.

Located in the new unit are the northern regional office of the state department of health, the Monroe regional laboratory, crippled children's district office and the Monroe regional chest clinic.

Vessels Collide Off California

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) —The destroyer Tingey and the destroyer escort Vammen collided at sea off the Southern California Coast, but there were no injuries to personnel, the Navy reported Friday.

Both ships were enroute to Hawaii on a two-week reserve training cruise when they collided early Friday morning.

The Vammen's bow was damaged and the Tingey was reported to have a hole in its starboard side near the fire room.

Buddhists Curb Peace Overtures

SAIGON (UPI) — Vice President Nguyen Ngoc Tho Friday said Buddhist leaders are hamstringing government efforts to resolve the three-month-long crisis touched off by Buddhist charges of discrimination and persecution in South Viet Nam.

The government of President Ngo Dinh Diem is "anxious" to end the religious-political struggle which has divided the country, Tho said. But, he told a news conference, this desire is being slowed by refusal of Buddhist leaders to meet with government officials in an attempt to work out a solution.

CHARGE DISCRIMINATION

Leaders of the Buddhists—who make up about two-thirds of South Viet Nam's population—have accused the government of Roman Catholic Diem of religious discrimination despite a joint agreement signed in June.

The government had asked its special interministerial committee and Buddhist leaders to form a joint commission to investigate the Buddhist charges that the agreement is not being carried out by the government.

But the Buddhist leaders have refused to participate in such a commission until the government conforms to certain conditions. The most touchy is that the government accept responsibility for the shooting by troops of eight Buddhist demonstrators last May 8 in the provincial capital of Hue.

The shooting ignited the Buddhist campaign which has included hunger strikes, protests, and the public suicide by fire of a Buddhist priest in Saigon.

Reading from a statement, Tho said the government is "anxious... about the necessity of ending an internal conflict which is harmful to our national union."

Fears have been expressed over the effects of the dispute on South Viet Nam's struggle against the Viet Cong Communist guerrillas.

Tho said Diem's earlier radio appeal proposing creation of the joint commission is evidence of "the government's deep desire for extreme conciliation." He said the commission not only would investigate Buddhist complaints but also would be responsible for implementing the provisions of the June agreement.

U.S. Officially Cuts Off Aid To Duvalier

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States officially announced withdrawal of its aid mission from Haiti Friday, thus cutting off all assistance to the dictatorial regime of Francois Duvalier.

The move was announced by the agency for International Development. It was intended to emphasize U.S. opposition to Duvalier and to encourage other countries to adopt a similar attitude.

It is understood that Haiti has failed in its bid to get France to set up an economic aid mission to replace the U.S. group, and West Germany has turned a cold shoulder to Duvalier's request for aid.

The U. S. action, according to the official announcement, "culminates the phasing out of aid programs and services."

Token support will be continued to a malaria eradication project, under the Pan American Health Organization, and a food distribution project through private charity organizations.

The United States started to cut aid to Haiti in June, 1962, and last month cancelled an important $2.8 million project to build an airport near Port au Prince.

Friday's move cuts all but the most formal diplomatic relations between Washington and Port au Prince. The ambassador's post in Haiti has been left vacant and a lower-ranking diplomat is in charge.

During the last few years of the Duvalier regime, U.S. aid had ranged between $5 million and $7.5 million annually, and was tightly controlled from Washington.

U. S. authorities had become increasingly dissatisfied with Duvalier's mismanagement and diversion of public funds for political patronage, and his misrepresentation of the official U.S. attitude toward his regime.

The cooling off of U.S.-Haitian relations was brought into the open in May, 1961, when Duvalier re-elected himself to a new term of office during a congressional election. Duvalier assumed dictatorial powers last May.

In announcing the closing of its mission in Haiti, the U.S. aid agency did not give and specific reasons for the move.

Spacemen Stay In Fine Health, Doctor Claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The astronauts' doctor says they are all enjoying fine health.

It appears that some rumors have been circulating at the Pentagon, in Congress, and in Houston that a couple of them were in a decline as the result of their jaunts into space.

The rumors aren't true, the space agency said Friday. The astronauts said to be ailing were M. Scott Carpenter, who flew around the earth three times on May 24, 1962, and Walter M. Schirra Jr. who flew six orbits Oct. 3, 1962.

L. Gordon Cooper, who made it around the globe 22.9 times on May 15-16, wasn't mentioned—presumably because the rumor spreaders figured he hadn't had time to suffer any delayed effects.

In response to inquiries, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), said neither Carpenter nor Schirra were in poor health because of their orbital flights "or for any other reasons."

The agency cites as its authority the astronauts' doctor, Charles A. Berry, chief of the medical operations office of NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston. Here is what NASA said he said:

"Neither Carpenter nor Schirra have any difficulties at all, and they are in excellent health.

"In fact, none of the astronauts who have made space flights has suffered any ill effects, and the entire group is in top physical condition.

Educational TV Temporarily Off

Educational television station KLSE will go off the air for a two-week period Aug. 5-16, according to Gordon Canterbury, station manager. The station normally broadcosts from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

The equipment and facilities of the educational station are being operated by students in the television production training class of the Ouachita Valley Vocational Technical School. The Vocational School closes for the above period for summer vacation. KLSE-TV will resume broadcasting Aug. 19, at 10 a.m.

IRS REPORTS INCOME

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday that taxpayers reported $329.9 billion in adjusted gross income for 1961.

This was $14.4 billion more than reported in 1960, the bureau said, with about 500,000 more persons filing returns in 1961 than the previous year.

MADE BEHIND IRON CURTAIN

Cold War ShowsU.S. Has Ability To Live Without Communist Goods

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cold war has taught U.S. consumers and businessmen that they can get along without products from behind the Iron Curtain.

If the small flow of goods between the United States and the Soviet bloc countries were cut off —as was virtually the case for several years after Korea—very few consumers, and fewer businessmen, would notice.

Except for canned ham, fish and a few other items, the imports from Eastern Europe run to the exotic and odd. An interruption in shipping from Russia and her satellites might result in a shortage of caviar and unprocessed sable, for instance.

The day has long since passed when the United States depended on Russia for chromium, manganese and a few other essential items.

Exports to the Soviet bloc last year were about $125 million, compared to a U.S. total of almost $19.5 billion; Red imports were $79 million compared to a U.S. total of $16.4 billion.

Those commerce department figures do not include Yugoslavia, which enjoyed greater trade with this country than the entire Red bloc—about $150 million in exports from the United States.

"Trade with the Soviet bloc is insignificant as far as the U.S. economy is concerned," a commerce department official said. "The trade is far more important to the Communist countries."

Just how much U.S. trade means to the countries allied with Moscow is hard to say because there are no exact figures on the economies of those countries.

It is obvious, however, that Poland, by far the largest Red trader, could ill afford to lose a market which absorbed $94.5 million of her exports in 1962, though this amount would not cause great concern here.

The Iron Curtain commerce provides some $45 million or so a year on the plus side of the balance of payments. U.S. officials generally welcome any plus items even though $45 million would have little impact on a payments deficit that may run to $3.2 billion this year.

The commerce department is promoting exports, in general, as a means of easing the payments deficit, but this policy does not apply to exports headed for Communist lands.

"We neither encourage nor discourage exports to Russia and her satellites," a commerce department official said. "It wouldn't be worth the trouble to encourage exporters in this direction, because there are so many items that cannot be sent to Communist countries."

The department, by law, keeps surveillance over any product leaving this country which might be of strategic use to Russian bloc countries.

The State Department has said that trade with Communist bloc countries has proven "useful as a means of expanding the Western presence and influence in Eastern Europe."

The State Department has said that trade with Coummunist bloc countries has proven "useful as a means of expanding the Western persence and influence in Eastern Europe."

The department also favors a more open policy toward Yugoslavia, officially rated a Communist country but independent of Moscow, and toward Poland, which is in the Moscow sphere but has insisted on a measure of autonomy in some matters.

Eugenie Anderson, US. envoy to Bulgaria, spoke out strongly a few weeks ago for restoring trading privileges to Yugoslavia and Poland. Otherwise, she said, the United States would "slam the door" on the two nations "which have rejected Communist rule."

A campaign by some U.S. citizens against foreign goods apparently reached a peak last year. Total imports were down slightly and exports to Red countries dropped 18 million from the $133 million total of 1961.

In the first five months of 1963, both imports and exports were ponding 1962 period, but import-export trends are difficult to spot over such a short period.

The U.S.-Soviet bloc trade generally has followed the long-range cold war trends. The United States sent $339 million worth of goods to the Communist countries in 1947, but this commerce dwindled to the disappearing point during the Korean War and did not make a big recovery until 1957.

Imports have followed the same general pattern, although the inflow of goods was far less before the Korean conflict, measuring $108 million in 1947.

The biggest change from 15 years ago is a big drop in trade with the Soviet Union.

Agricultural items are the principal U.S. exports to Red nations, accounting for about half the total. Wheat leads the list, followed by cotton, barley, and rice. Smaller items include soybean oil, corn, hides and skins but not furs, Rubber, sorghum grains, paper and paper processing machinery, edible vegetable oils and fats and medicines.

400 WATCHED HISTORY MADE

Oath Was Issued Coolidge By Father 40 Years Ago

PLYMOUTH, Vt. (AP) — The time was 2:47 a.m. A flickering oil lamp cast long shadows around the farmhouse sitting room as Calvin Coolidge became the 30th President of the United States.

They knew that this homestead inaugural was bringing them an experience unique in the history of the country. The oath of office was administered to Cooledge by his father, Col. John C. Coolidge, a justice of the peace.

Coolidge had just learned of the death in San Francisco of President Warren G. Harding, and took the oath on the advice of the attorney general.

Although the Constitution outlines the form of the oath, which Chief Justice of the United States, there is no specification on who should administer it.

Of the six in the room, five have died. They are Coolidge; his father; the president's wife, Grace Goodhue Coolidge; the president's secretary, Erwin C. Geiser, and U.S. Sen. Porter H. Dale.

Joe Fountain, a former newspaperman, the only one still alive, is public relations officer for Canadian National Railways.

Fountain covered for The Associated Press that day and recalls that Col. Coolidge's housekeeper, Miss Aurora Pierce, peered through a partly open kitchen door off the living room as the solemn, tight-lipped man faced his proud father across the table.

Coolidge was the coolest figure in the room. He looked steadily into the eyes of his father, a kindly old colonel who got his honorary title as a member of a Vermont governor's staff.

President Calvin Coolidge left immediately for Washington.

MacArthur's Land Reform Near Era

TOKYO (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur's sweeping land reform program, perhaps the most dramatic and widely acclaimed reform of the postwar era in Japan, is now on the verge of a new deal for ex-landlords.

But the basic reform will remain. It has long since become part of the fabric of Japanese society. The conservative government of Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda, under strong pressure from former landlords who were stripped of their vast land holdings shortly after the end of World War II, is slowly but determinedly taking a second look at the program that was launched some 17 years ago.

Approved Budget

The Diet (parliament) already has approved a government request for a budget amounting to 198 million yen ($525,000) to conduct the study.

The purpose of the project is to find out whether a large number of former landlords should be given help.

Already the major opposition Socialist party has made it known that it is against any plan to give more money to former landlords.

The sweeping land reform program was launched in 1946 under the occupation decree which stated that it was an attempt to "democratize" Japan's rural life and to "relieve farmers of the burden of an oppressive landlord system, which fostered anti-democratic social relations and counteracted efforts to increase agricultural production."

With the "democratization" of Japanese village life, about 2.5 million landlords gave up some five million acres of paddies.

Became Landowners

A total of 4,260,000 tennants became landowners overnight. Each one of them was allowed to purchase up to five acres of paddies at the cost of 760 yen ($2.10) per square yard. In turn, each landlord was forced to give up his land holding in return for 890 yen ($2.47) per square yard.

The land reform decree was naturally on the side of tenants, for the occupation authorities had instructed the Japanese government to allow tenants to pay the price for their newly obtained lands in installments if they could not make lump sum payments.

The land reform was carried out so successfully that Japan's agricultural economy, mainly rice production, increased gradually until 1962 when rice yields amounted to 96 bushels, per acre. In fact, the record 1962 rice crop was the eighth consecutive bumper harvest in the country.

Recovery Rapid

Japan's rapid recovery from the war and remarkable industrial progress have cut deeply into countryside. There are new factories and new houses in the formerly quiet country. Some of them were built on paddies that were sold by farmers who attained them under the land reform program.

There were reports that some of these farmers sold their paddies for huge sums of money — usually about 36,000 yen ($100) per square yard.

Former landlords resented all this. They felt they could have benefited if they had not been forced to give up their land holdings.

They formed a powerful lobby to ask the ruling liberal democratic party to do something on their behalf.

The party called on the government to allocate a sum of 294 billion yen ($819 million) as compensation for former landowners.

But a decision may not be forthcoming for sometime. One official said that the study of the land reform program may take a year or more before any decision can be reached.

Christians Fight Red China's Try To Ban Religion

HELSINKI (UPI) — Christians in Communist China are fighting attempts at suppression by reciting services by rote when government agents confiscate their Bibles, the Lutheran World Federation World Assembly was told Friday.

Chinese Christians face isolation and their churches may be turned into storehouses, a Lutheran spokesman said.

"If they wish to hold Sunday services, they must count on missing Sunday work and possibly having their rations cut for missed time," the spokesman added.

"One day they came into our church and took away all our hymn books and gospels," the letter said. "They said we could not use them any more.

The letter said the books were returned when foreign visitors came to see the church. "But after the visitors left, they took away our books again."

Workshop Set For Teachers At Northeast

Northeast State College's Special Education Center will offer a summer workshop for teachers of the "exceptionally able," Dr. Lavelle Haynes, director, has announced.

The program is scheduled from Aug. 5 to Aug. 11, with registration on the opening day at 1 p.m. tion on the opening day at 1 p.m. in room 119 of Brown Hall Addition on campus.

James H. Perry, state supervisor of special education, will be the workshop instructor. He recently participated in a nationwide study of programs for gifted children.

The workshop is designed for teachers and other school personnel who are interested in a study of current trends and practices in the education of exceptionally able children in public schools.

Two hours of graduate or undergraduate credit may be earned by persons completing this course. Classes will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday for the two-week period.

This study feature will be the fifth of six programs which the Special Education Center has included in its calendar of summer conferences and workshops.

Views Differ

HAVANA — Ernest (Che) Guevara, Cuban industries minister, told the 58 American college students on an illegal junket to Cuba that the leaders of Fidel Castro's revolution were not yet Marxists when they were in the Sierra Maestra fighting the Batista dictatorship. His assertion disputes Fidel Castro's famous Dec. 2, 1961 "Marxist-Leninist speech." Castro said he had been substantially a Marxist-Leninist since 1953 when he led the raid on Moncada barracks.

FURNITURE SALE

(MONEY-SAVER STYLE)

Please drive slowly to J. Adams Furniture sale. A lot of people have been waiting for us to have a sale and we are concerned about traffic. This sale is now in progress and the markdowns are tremendous . . . However, J. Adams doesn't want to cause any more accidents. There are too many now. People will be coming from Bastrop, Crossett, Rayville, Oak Grove, Winnsboro, Ruston, Delhi, Sterlington, Farmerville, maybe even from Angola, if they can get away. Don't feel that you have to beat them all, because there is plenty for everybody. If you can't take it easy and drive carefully, we just might stop having sales at J. Adams! How would you like that? So far we haven't mentioned what is going to be on sale and maybe we should. We would dislike to have a bunch of men come in after suits and take the place apart because we won't have men's suits on sale. Fact of the matter is, we don't even carry men's suits. We don't carry a lot of other things either, like baby food, footballs, paper clips, toothpaste with fluoride, ear muffs, so if you want any of these things, don't come to J. Adams. As a matter of fact, there will be only one thing on sale, furniture, nothing but furniture, the prettiest furniture at the best prices.
